PREFACE

THIS selection is planned for children between nine or ten, and fifteen or sixteen years of age ; the pleasure and advantage of the older students in Elementary, and the younger in Grammar and Public Schools, being especially kept in view. As it is meant for their own possession and study, not less than for use as a class-book in the teacher's hand, sufficient notes (it is thought) have been added to render the volume by itself fairly comprehensible to children of average intelligence : and the editor hopes that this object may be his excuse with those who may consider the annotations too numerous.

The scheme of choice followed has produced a selection different from any known to the editor. Suitability to childhood is, of course, the common principle of all. But, this quality secured (so far as individual judgment can), nothing has been here admitted which does not reach a high rank in poetical merit ; and the available stores of English poetry have been carefully reviewed for the purpose. The editor's wish has been to collect all songs, narratives, descriptions, or reflective pieces of a lyrical quality, fit to give pleasure,—high, pure, manly, (and therefore lasting)—to children in the stage between early childhood and early youth : and no pieces which are not of this character. Poetry, for poetry's sake, is what he offers. To illustrate the history of our literature, to furnish specimens of leading or of less-known poets, to give useful lessons for this or the other life, to encourage a patriotic temper—each an aim fit to form the guiding principle of a selection—have here only an indirect and subsidiary recognition. It is, however, believed that, so far as the scope of the book coincides with such other aims, they may be more effectually served through the powerful operation of really good poetry, than when made the main object of a collection.

The standard of ‘merit as poetry’ (so far as the editor, aided by some friends distinguished by good judgment and scholarship, may have been successful in preserving it), has excluded a certain number of popular favourites. But the standard of ‘suitability to childhood,’ as here understood, has excluded many more pieces : pictures of life as it seems to middle-age—poems coloured by sentimentalism or morbid melancholy, however attractive to readers no longer children—love as personal passion or regret (not love as the groundwork of action)—artificial or highly allusive language—have, as a rule, been held unfit. The aim has been to shun scenes and sentiments alien from the temper of average healthy childhood, and hence of greater intrinsic difficulty than poems containing unusual words. Hence, although the rules of choice have given this book, as compared with many of its predecessors, an unfamiliar air, yet it is believed that the contents will in fact prove ultimately at least as comprehensible to children between the ages specified.

Poems suitable for readers in the latter half of these years are marked with a star in the index. Some pieces will be found admitted as examples leading up to the poetry appropriate to later education and the experience of life ; but, looking to the small size of the collection, it has not been thought desirable to attempt ranging the contents in order of composition or of relative difficulty.

A few omissions have been made in order to render a poem more suitable for childhood, or to escape encroachment on the field of distinctly devotional verse ; others, more copiously, when the poem could be thus strengthened in a vivid effectiveness. The North-country Ballads have thus been greatly shortened ; a child (in the editor's judgment), especially one unfamiliar with dialect, being more likely to appreciate afterwards their charming antique garrulity, and the repetitions of phrase proper to orally-published poetry, if presented first with a tale in our more condensed modern manner. When, as here, poetry for poetry's sake is concerned, extracts in general appear wholly unsatisfactory to the editor ; they are like fragments barbarously broken from statues. Such only have, therefore, been included which form in themselves complete works of art.

The rule that no piece should be admitted, unless reaching a high rank in poetical merit, if carried out successfully, will have rendered this book fit also for older readers. Such will know that the treasures here collected are but a few drops from an ocean, unequalled in wealth and variety by any existing literature ; that many illustrious names are, necessarily, altogether absent ; that many others receive but a meagre and imperfect representation. Among the five (surviving) Imperial poets of the Western world, England claims two ; but how faintly does a selection, limited as this, present the splendour of Shakespeare and Milton ! Descending one or two steps, if Wordsworth and Scott, within this century, are fairly shown in a single region of their power, Keats, Shelley, Byron, Crabbe, on different grounds, must be nearly or wholly undisplayed. But, in truth, no selection should be planned or accepted as able to do more than open a glimpse into the 'Elysian fields' of song. Pleasant as has been the task of forming this book, in the hope that it may, in itself, prove a pleasure and a gain to the dear English and English-speaking children, all the world over,—yet the editor will hold his work but half fulfilled, unless they are tempted by it to go on and wander, in whatever direction their fancy may lead them, through the roads and winding ways of this great and glorious world of English poetry. He aims only at showing them the path, and giving them a little foretaste of our treasures:—

To-morrow to fresh woods, and pastures new.

A LAUGHING SONG

WHEN the green woods laugh with the voice of joy,
And the dimpling stream runs laughing by ;
When the air does laugh with our merry wit,
And the green hill laughs with the noise of it ;

When the meadows laugh with lively green, 5
And the grasshopper laughs in the merry scene ;
When Mary, and Susan, and Emily,
With their sweet round mouths sing, ‘ Ha, ha, he !’

When the painted birds laugh in the shade,
Where our table with cherries and nuts is spread : 10
Come live, and be merry, and join with me
To sing the sweet chorus of ' Ha, ha, he ! '

THE PET LAMB

THE dew was falling fast, the stars began to blink ;
I heard a voice ; it said, ' Drink, pretty creature, drink !'

And looking o'er the hedge, before me I espied
A snow-white mountain lamb, with a maiden at its side.

Nor sheep, nor kine were near ; the lamb was all alone, 5
And by a slender cord was tether'd to a stone ;
With one knee on the grass did the little maiden kneel,
While to that mountain lamb she gave its evening meal.

The lamb, while from her hand he thus his supper took,
Seem'd to feast with head and ears ; and his tail with pleasure shook : 10
'Drink, pretty creature, drink!' she said in such a tone
That I almost received her heart into my own.

'Twas little Barbara Lewthwaite, a child of beauty rare !
I watch'd them with delight, they were a lovely pair ;
Now with her empty can the maiden turn'd away ; 15
But ere ten yards were gone, her footsteps did she stay.

Right towards the lamb she look'd ; and from that shady place
I unobserved could see the workings of her face ;
If nature to her tongue could measured numbers bring,
Thus, thought I, to her lamb that little maid might sing : 20

'What ails thee, Young one? what? Why pull so at thy cord?
'Is it not well with thee? well both for bed and board?
'Thy plot of grass is soft, and green as grass can be;
'Rest, little Young one, rest ; what is't that aileth thee?

'What is it thou wouldst seek? What is wanting to thy heart? 25

'Thy limbs are they not strong? and beautiful thou art!

'This grass is tender grass; these flowers they have no peers;

'And that green corn all day is rustling in thy ears.

'If the sun be shining hot, do but stretch thy woollen chain;

'This beech is standing by, its covert thou canst gain; 30

'For rain and mountain-storms!—the like thou need'st not fear,

'The rain and storm are things that scarcely can come here.

'Rest, little Young one, rest; thou hast forgot the day

'When my father found thee first in places far away;

'Many flocks were on the hills, but thou wert own'd
by none, 35

'And thy mother from thy side for evermore was gone.

'He took thee in his arms, and in pity brought thee home:

'A blessed day for thee!—then whither wouldst thou roam?

'A faithful nurse thou hast; the dam that did thee yea

'Upon the mountain-tops no kinder could have been. 40

'Thou know'st that twice a day I have brought thee in this can

'Fresh water from the brook, as clear as ever ran ;
'And twice in the day, when the ground is wet with dew,

'I bring thee draughts of milk, warm milk it is and new.

'Thy limbs will shortly be twice as stout as they are now, 45

'Then I'll yoke thee to my cart like a pony in the plough !

'My playmate thou shalt be ; and when the wind is cold

'Our hearth shall be thy bed, our house shall be thy fold.

'It will not, will not rest !—Poor creature, can it be

'That 'tis thy mother's heart which is working so in thee? 50

'Things that I know not of belike to thee are dear,
'And dreams of things which thou canst neither see nor hear.

'Alas, the mountain-tops that look so green and fair!

'I've heard of fearful winds and darkness that come there ;

'The little brooks that seem all pastime and all play, 55

'When they are angry, roar like lions for their prey.

'Here thou need'st not dread the raven in the sky ;

'Night and day thou art safe,—our cottage is hard by.

'Why bleat so after me? Why pull so at thy chain?

'Sleep—and at break of day I will come to thee again !' 60

—As homeward through the lane I went with lazy feet,
This song to myself did I oftentimes repeat ;
And it seem'd, as I retraced the ballad line by line,
That but half of it was hers, and one half of it was mine.

Again, and once again, did I repeat the song ; 65
'Nay,' said I, 'more than half to the damsel must belong !—
'For she look'd with such a look, and she spake with such a tone,
'That I almost received her heart into my own.'
W. Wordsworth

THE LAMB

LITTLE Lamb, who made thee ?
Dost thou know who made thee ?
Gave thee life, and bade thee feed
By the stream and o'er the mead ;
Gave thee clothing of delight, 5
Softest clothing, woolly, bright ;
Gave thee such a tender voice,
Making all the vales rejoice :
Little Lamb, who made thee ?
Dost thou know who made thee ? 10

Little Lamb, I'll tell thee !
Little Lamb, I'll tell thee.
He is calléd by thy name,
For He calls Himself a Lamb :—

He is meek, and He is mild ; 15
 He became a little child :
 I, a child, and thou, a lamb,
 We are calléd by His name.
 Little Lamb, God bless thee ;
 Little Lamb, God bless thee. 20

EPITAPH ON A HARE

HERE lies, whom hound did ne'er pursue,
 Nor swifter greyhound follow,
 Whose foot ne'er tainted morning dew,
 Nor ear heard huntsman's halloo !

Old Tiney, surliest of his kind, 5
 Who, nursed with tender care,
 And to domestic bounds confined,
 Was still a wild Jack-hare.

Though duly from my hand he took
 His pittance every night, 10
 He did it with a jealous look,
 And, when he could, would bite.

His diet was of wheaten bread,
 And milk, and oats, and straw ;
 Thistles, or lettuces instead, 15
 With sand to scour his maw.

On twigs of hawthorn he regaled,
 On pippin's russet peel ;
 And when his juicy salads fail'd
 Sliced carrot pleased him well. 20

A Turkey carpet was his lawn,
Whereon he loved to bound,
To skip and gambol like a fawn,
And swing his rump around.

His frisking was at evening hours, 25
For then he lost his fear ;
But most before approaching showers,
Or when a storm drew near.

Eight years and five round-rolling moons
He thus saw steal away, 30
Dozing out all his idle noons,
And every night at play.

I kept him for his humour's sake,
For he would oft beguile
My heart of thoughts that made it ache, 35
And force me to a smile.

But now, beneath this walnut shade,
He finds his long last home,
And waits, in snug concealment laid,
Till gentler Puss shall come. 40

He, still more aged, feels the shocks
From which no care can save :—
And, partner once of Tiney's box,
Must soon partake his grave.

W. Cowper

THE WOUNDED HARE

INHUMAN man ! curse on thy barbarous art,
And blasted be thy murder-aiming eye ;
May never pity soothe thee with a sigh,
Nor ever pleasure glad thy cruel heart !

29 moons, months 34 beguile, cheat
1 inhuman, cruel ; barbarous art, shooting for sport's sake

—Go, live, poor wanderer of the wood and field, 5
 The bitter little that of life remains ;
 No more the thickening brakes and verdant plains
 To thee shall home, or food, or pastime yield.

Seek, mangled wretch, some place of wonted rest,
 No more of rest, but now thy dying bed ! 10
 The sheltering rushes whistling o'er thy head,
 The cold earth with thy bloody bosom prest.

Oft as by winding Nith, I, musing, wait
 The sober eve, or hail the cheerful dawn,
 I'll miss thee sporting o'er the dewy lawn, 15
 And curse the ruffian's aim, and mourn thy hapless fate. R. Burns

TO A SPANIEL ON HIS KILLING A YOUNG BIRD

A SPANIEL, Beau, that fares like you,
 Well fed, and at his ease,
 Should wiser be than to pursue
 Each trifle that he sees.

But you have kill'd a tiny bird, 5
 Which flew not till to-day,
 Against my orders, whom you heard
 Forbidding you the prey.

Nor did you kill that you might eat,
 And ease a doggish pain, 10
 For him, though chased with furious heat,
 You left where he was slain.

Nor was he of the thievish sort,
 Or one whom blood allures,
 But innocent was all his sport 15
 Whom you have torn for yours.

My dog ! what remedy remains,
 Since, teach you all I can,
 I see you after all my pains 20
 So much resemble man ?

Beau's Reply

Sir, when I flew to seize the bird
 In spite of your command,
 A louder voice than yours I heard,
 And harder to withstand.

You cried—forbear !—but in my breast 25
 A mightier cried—proceed !
 'Twas Nature, Sir, whose strong behest
 Impell'd me to the deed.

Yet, much as Nature I respect,
 I ventured once to break 30
 (As you, perhaps, may recollect)
 Her precept for your sake ;

And when your linnet, on a day,
 Passing his prison door,
 Had flutter'd all his strength away, 35
 And, panting, press'd the floor ;

Well knowing him a sacred thing,
 Not destined to my tooth,
 I only kiss'd his ruffled wing,
 And lick'd the feathers smooth. 40

14 allures, tempts

17 remedy, cure

27 behest, command

28 impell'd, drove

32 precept, order

38 destined, meant for

Let my obedience then excuse
 My disobedience now,
 Nor some reproof yourself refuse
 From your aggrieved Bow-wow ;
 If killing birds be such a crime 45
 (Which I can hardly see),
 What think you, Sir, of killing time,
 With verse address'd to me ?
W. Cowper

THE BLIND BOY

O SAY what is that thing call'd Light,
 Which I must ne'er enjoy ;
 What are the blessings of the Sight :
 O tell your poor blind boy !
 You talk of wondrous things you see ; 5
 You say the sun shines bright ;
 I feel him warm, but how can he
 Or make it day or night ?
 My day or night myself I make
 Whene'er I sleep or play ; 10
 And could I ever keep awake
 With me 'twere always day.
 With heavy sighs I often hear
 You mourn my hapless woe ;
 But sure with patience I can bear 15
 A loss I ne'er can know.
 Then let not what I cannot have
 My cheer of mind destroy :
 Whilst thus I sing, I am a king,
 Although a poor blind boy. 20

ALICE FELL

THE post-boy drove with fierce career,
For threatening clouds the moon had drown'd ;
When, as we hurried on, my ear
Was smitten with a startling sound.

As if the wind blew many ways, 5
I heard the sound,—and more and more ;
It seem'd to follow with the chaise,
And still I heard it as before.

At length I to the boy call'd out ;
He stopp'd his horses at the word, 10
But neither cry, nor voice, nor shout,
Nor aught else like it, could be heard.

The boy then smack'd his whip, and fast
The horses scamper'd through the rain ;
But hearing soon upon the blast 15
The cry, I bade him halt again.

Forthwith alighting on the ground,
'Whence comes,' said I, 'this piteous moan ?'
And there a little girl I found,
Sitting behind the chaise alone. 20

'My cloak !' no other word she spake,
But loud and bitterly she wept,
As if her innocent heart would break ;
And down from off her seat she leapt.

'What ails you, child ?'—she sobb'd, 'Look here !' 25

I saw it in the wheel entangled,
A weather-beaten rag as e'er
From any garden scarecrow dangled.

There, twisted between nave and spoke,
It hung, nor could at once be freed ; 30
But our joint pains unloosed the cloak,
A miserable rag indeed !

‘ And whither are you going, child,
‘ To-night, along these lonesome ways ? ’
‘ To Durham,’ answer’d she, half wild— 35
‘ Then come with me into the chaise.’

Insensible to all relief
Sat the poor girl, and forth did send Sob after sob, as if her grief
Could never, never have an end. 40

‘ My child, in Durham do you dwell ? ’
She check’d herself in her distress,
And said, ‘ My name is Alice Fell ;
‘ I’m fatherless and motherless.

‘ And I to Durham, Sir, belong.’ 45
Again, as if the thought would choke
Her very heart, her grief grew strong ;
And all was for her tatter’d cloak.

The chaise drove on ; our journey’s end
Was nigh ; and, sitting by my side, 50
As if she had lost her only friend,
She wept, nor would be pacified.

Up to the tavern-door we post :
Of Alice and her grief I told,
And I gave money to the host, 55
To buy a new cloak for the old.

‘ And let it be of duffil gray,
‘ As warm a cloak as man can sell ! ’
—Proud creature was she the next day,
The little orphan, Alice Fell ! 60

THE LITTLE GIRL LOST

IN the southern clime,
Where the summer's prime
Never fades away,
Lovely Lyca lay.

Seven summers old 5
Lovely Lyca told ;
She had wander'd long,
Hearing wild-birds' song.

' Sweet sleep, come to me
' Underneath this tree ! 10
' Do father, mother, weep ?
' Where can Lyca sleep ?

' Lost in desert wild
' Is your little child !
' How can Lyca sleep 15
' If her mother weep ?

' If her heart does ache
' Then let Lyca wake :—
' If my mother sleep,
' Lyca shall not weep. 20

' Frowning, frowning, night
' O'er this desert bright,
' Let thy moon arise
' While I close my eyes !'

Sleeping Lyca lay : 25
While the beasts of prey
Come from caverns deep,
View'd the maid asleep.

The kingly lion stood,
And the virgin view'd : 30
' Then he gamboll'd round
O'er the hallow'd ground.

Leopards, tigers, play
 Round her as she lay ;
 While the lion old
 Bow'd his mane of gold, 35

And [did] her bosom lick ;
 And upon her neck
 From his eyes of flame
 Ruby tears there came : 40

While the lioness
 Loosed her slender dress ;
 And naked they convey'd
 To caves the sleeping maid.

THE LITTLE GIRL FOUND

ALL the night in woe
 Lyca's parents go,
 Over valleys deep,
 While the deserts weep.

Tired and woe-begone, 5
 Hoarse with making moan,
 Arm-in-arm seven days
 They traced the desert ways.

Seven nights they sleep
 Among shadows deep, 10
 And dream they see their child
 Starved in desert wild.

Pale through pathless ways
 The fancied image strays,
 Famish'd, weeping, weak, 15
 With hollow piteous shriek

Rising from unrest
The trembling woman press'd
With feet of weary woe :
She could no further go. 20

In his arms he bore
Her, arm'd with sorrow sore ;
Till before their way
A couching lion lay.

Turning back was vain : 25
Soon his heavy mane
Bore them to the ground ;
Then he stalk'd around

Smelling to his prey ;
But their fears allay, 30
When he licks their hands,
And silent by them stands.

They look upon his eyes,
Fill'd with deep surprise ;
And wondering behold 35
A spirit arm'd in gold.

On his head a crown :
On his shoulders down
Flow'd his golden hair !
Gone was all their care. 40

'Follow me,' he said ;
'Weep not for the maid ;
'In my palace deep
'Lyca lies asleep.'

Then they followéd 45
Where the vision led,
And saw their sleeping child
Among tigers wild.

To this day they dwell
 In a lonely dell ; 50
 Nor fear the wolvish howl,
 Nor the lions' growl.

JOHN GILPIN

JOHN Gilpin was a citizen
 Of credit and renown,
 A train-band captain eke was he
 Of famous London Town.

John Gilpin's spouse said to her dear, 5
 'Though wedded we have been
 'These twice ten tedious years, yet we
 'No holiday have seen.

'To-morrow is our wedding-day,
 'And we will then repair 10
 'Unto the Bell at Edmonton,
 'All in a chaise and pair.

'My sister and my sister's child,
 'Myself, and children three,
 'Will fill the chaise ; so you must ride 15
 'On horseback after we.'

He soon replied, 'I do admire
 'Of womankind but one,
 'And you are she, my dearest dear,
 'Therefore it shall be done. 20

‘I am a linendraper bold,
‘As all the world doth know,
‘And my good friend, the Calender,
‘Will lend his horse to go.’

Quoth Mistress Gilpin, 'That's well said ; 25
 ' And, for that wine is dear,
 ' We will be furnish'd with our own,
 ' Which is both bright and clear.'

John Gilpin kiss'd his loving wife ;
O'erjoy'd was he to find
That, though on pleasure she was bent,
She had a frugal mind.

The morning came, the chaise was brought,
But yet was not allow'd
To drive up to the door, lest all
Should say that she was proud.

So three doors off the chaise was stay'd,
Where they did all get in,
Six precious souls, and all agog
To dash through thick and thin. 40

Smack went the whip, round went the wheels ;
Were never folks so glad :
The stones did rattle underneath,
As if Cheapside were mad.

John Gilpin, at his horse's side, 45
Seized fast the flowing mane,
And up he got, in haste to ride,
But soon came down again ;

For saddle-tree scarce reach'd had he,
His journey to begin, 50
When, turning round his head, he saw
Three customers come in.

23 Calender, cloth-dresser 44 a street in London
49 saddle-tree, bow of the saddle

So down he came ; for loss of time
 Although it grieved him sore,
 Yet loss of pence, full well he knew, 55
 Would trouble him much more.

'Twas long before the customers
 Were suited to their mind,
 When Betty, screaming, came downstairs,
 'The wine is left behind !' 60

'Good lack !' quoth he, 'yet bring it me,
 'My leathern belt likewise,
 'In which I bear my trusty sword
 'When I do exercise.'

Now Mistress Gilpin (careful soul !)
 Had two stone-bottles found, 65
 To hold the liquor that she loved,
 And keep it safe and sound.

Each bottle had a curling ear,
 Through which the belt he drew, 70
 And hung a bottle on each side,
 To make his balance true.

Then over all, that he might be
 Equipp'd from top to toe,
 His long red cloak, well-brush'd and neat, 75
 He manfully did throw.

Now see him mounted once again
 Upon his nimble steed,
 Full slowly pacing o'er the stones,
 With caution and good heed. 80

But finding soon a smoother road
 Beneath his well-shod feet,
 The snorting beast began to trot,
 Which gall'd him in his seat.

So, 'Fair and softly!' John he cried, 85
But John he cried in vain;
That trot became a gallop soon,
In spite of curb and rein.

So stooping down, as needs he must
Who cannot sit upright, 90
He grasp'd the mane with both his hands,
And eke with all his might.

His horse, who never in that sort
Had handled been before,
What thing upon his back had got 95
Did wonder more and more.

Away went Gilpin, neck or nought;
Away went hat and wig;
He little dreamt, when he set out,
Of running such a rig. 100

The wind did blow, the cloak did fly,
Like streamer long and gay,
Till loop and button failing both,
At last it flew away.

Then might all people well discern 105
The bottles he had slung;
A bottle swinging at each side,
As hath been said or sung.

The dogs did bark, the children scream'd,
Up flew the windows all; 110
And every soul cried out—'Well done!'
As loud as he could bawl.

Away went Gilpin—who but he?
His fame soon spread around,
'He carries weight; he rides a race! 115
'Tis for a thousand pound!'

And still as fast as he drew near,
'Twas wonderful to view
How in a trice the turnpike men
Their gates wide open threw. 120

And now, as he went bowing down
His reeking head full low,
The bottles twain behind his back
Were shatter'd at a blow.

Down ran the wine into the road, 125
Most piteous to be seen,
Which made his horse's flanks to smoke
As they had basted been.

But still he seem'd to carry weight,
With leathern girdle braced ; 130
For all might see the bottle-necks
Still dangling at his waist.

Thus all through merry Islington
These gambols he did play,
Until he came unto the Wash 135
Of Edmonton so gay ;

And there he threw the Wash about
On both sides of the way,
Just like unto a trundling mop,
Or a wild goose at play. 140

At Edmonton his loving wife
From the balcony spied
Her tender husband, wondering much
To see how he did ride.

'Stop, stop, John Gilpin !—Here's the house'— 145
They all at once did cry ;
'The dinner waits, and we are tired ;'
Said Gilpin, 'So am I !'

But yet his horse was not a whit
Inclined to tarry there ; 150
For why? his owner had a house
Full ten miles off, at Ware.

So like an arrow swift he flew,
Shot by an archer strong ;
So did he fly—which brings me to 155
The middle of my song.

Away went Gilpin, out of breath,
And sore against his will,
Till at his friend the Calender's
His horse at last stood still. 160

The Calender, amazed to see
His neighbour in such trim,
Laid down his pipe, flew to the gate,
And thus accosted him.

'What news? what news? your tidings tell ! 165
'Tell me you must and shall —
'Say, why bare-headed you are come,
'Or why you come at all?'

Now Gilpin had a pleasant wit,
And loved a timely joke ; 170
And thus unto the Calender
In merry guise he spoke :

'I came, because your horse would come ;
'And, if I well forbode,
'My hat and wig will soon be here, 175
'They are upon the road.'

His friend in merry pin,
Return'd him not a single word,
But to the house went in ; 180

Whence straight he came, with hat and wig,
A wig that flow'd behind ;
A hat not much the worse for wear ;
Each comely in its kind.

He held them up, and in his turn 185
Thus show'd his ready wit :
' My head is twice as big as yours,
' They therefore needs must fit.

' But let me scrape the dirt away,
' That hangs upon your face ; 190
' And stop and eat, for well you may ' Be in a hungry case.'

Said John, ' It is my wedding-day,
' And all the world would stare,
' If wife should dine at Edmonton, 195
' And I should dine at Ware !'

So, turning to his horse, he said,
' I am in haste to dine ;
' 'Twas for your pleasure you came here,
' You shall go back for mine.' 200

Ah, luckless speech, and bootless boast !
For which he paid full dear ;
For, while he spake, a braying ass
Did sing most loud and clear ;

Whereat his horse did snort, as he 205
Had heard a lion roar,
And gallop'd off with all his might,
As he had done before.

Away went Gilpin, and away
Went Gilpin's hat and wig ; 210
He lost them sooner than at first,
For why?—they were too big.

Now Mistress Gilpin, when she saw
Her husband posting down
Into the country far away, 215
She pull'd out half-a-crown ;

And thus unto the youth she said,
That drove them to the Bell,
'This shall be yours, when you bring back
'My husband safe and well.' 220

The youth did ride, and soon did meet
John coming back amain ;
Whom in a trice he tried to stop,
By catching at his rein ;

But not performing what he meant, 225
And gladly would have done,
The frighten'd steed he frighten'd more,
And made him faster run.

Away went Gilpin, and away
Went postboy at his heels, 230
The postboy's horse right glad to miss
The lumbering of the wheels.

Six gentlemen upon the road
Thus seeing Gilpin fly,
With postboy scampering in the rear, 235
They raised the hue and cry:—

'Stop thief!—stop thief!—a highwayman !'
Not one of them was mute ;
And all and each that pass'd that way
Did join in the pursuit. 240

And now the turnpike gates again
Flew open in short space:
The toll-men thinking as before
That Gilpin rode a race.

And so he did, and won it too ! 245
 For he got first to town ;
 Nor stopp'd, till where he had got up
 He did again get down.
 — Now let us sing, Long live the King,
 And Gilpin, long live he ; 250
 And, when he next doth ride abroad,
 May I be there to see !

WILLIAM AND MARGARET

'Twas at the silent, solemn hour
 When night and morning meet ;
 In glided Margaret's grimly ghost,
 And stood at William's feet.
 Her face was like an April morn, 5
 Clad in a wintry cloud ;
 And clay-cold was her lily hand,
 That held her sable shroud.
 So shall the fairest face appear
 When youth and years are flown : 10
 Such is the robe that kings must wear,
 When death has reft their crown.
 Her bloom was like the springing flower,
 That sips the silver dew ;
 The rose was budded in her cheek, 15
 Just opening to the view.
 But love had, like the cankerworm,
 Consumed her early prime:
 The rose grew pale, and left her cheek ;
 She died before her time. 20

- 'Awake !' she cried, 'thy true Love calls,
 'Come from her midnight grave ;
 'Now let thy pity hear the maid,
 'Thy love refused to save !
- 'This is the dumb and dreary hour, 25
 'When injured ghosts complain ;
 'When yawning graves give up their dead,
 'To haunt the faithless swain.
- 'Bethink thee, William, of thy fault,
 'Thy pledge and broken oath ! 30
 'And give me back my maiden-vow,
 'And give me back my troth.
- 'Why did you promise love to me,
 'And not that promise keep?
 'Why did you swear my eyes were bright, 35
 'Yet leave those eyes to weep ?
- 'How could you say my face was fair,
 'And yet that face forsake ?
 'How could you win my virgin heart,
 'Yet leave that heart to break ? 40
- 'Why did you say my lip was sweet,
 'And made the scarlet pale ?
 'And why did I, young witless maid :
 'Believe the flattering tale ?
- 'That face, alas ! no more is fair, 45
 'Those lips no longer red :
 'Dark are my eyes, now closed in death,
 'And every charm is fled.
- 'The hungry worm my sister is ;
 'This winding-sheet I wear : 50
 'And cold and weary lasts our night,
 'Till that last morn appear.

‘ But, hark ! the cock has warn’d me hence ;
 ‘ A long and late adieu !
 ‘ Come see, false man, how low she lies 55
 ‘ Who died for love of you ! ’

The lark sung loud ; the morning smiled
 With beams of rosy red :
 Pale William quaked in every limb,
 And raving left his bed. 60

He hied him to the fatal place
 Where Margaret’s body lay ;
 And stretch’d him on the green-grass turf
 That wrapp’d her breathless clay.

And thrice he call’d on Margaret’s name, 65
 And thrice he wept full sore ;
 Then laid his cheek to her cold grave,
 And word spake never more !

THE TRUE SWEETHEART

A FAIR maid sat at her bower-door,
 Wringing her lily hands ;
 And by it came a sprightly youth
 Fast tripping o’er the strands.

‘ Where gang ye, young John,’ she says, 5
 ‘ Sae early in the day ?
 ‘ It gars me think, by your fast trip,
 ‘ Your journey’s far away.’

He turn’d about with surly look,
 And said, ‘ What’s that to thee ? 10
 ‘ I’m gaen’ to see a lovely maid
 ‘ Mair fairer far than ye.’

—‘ False Love, and hast thou play’d me this ‘ In summer among the flowers ?
 ‘ I will repay thee back again 15
 ‘ In winter among the showers.

‘ Unless again, again, my Love,
 ‘ Unless you turn again ;
 ‘ As you with other maidens rove,
 ‘ I’ll smile on other men.’ 20

—‘ O make your choice of whom you please,
 ‘ For I my choice will have ;
 ‘ I’ve chosen a maid mair fair than thee,
 ‘ I never will deceive.’

She kilted up her clothing fine, 25
 And after him gaed she ;
 But aye he said, ‘ Turn back, turn back,
 ‘ No further gang with me !’

—But again, dear Love, and again, dear Love,
 ‘ Will ye ne’er love me again ? 30
 ‘ Alas for loving you sae weel,
 ‘ And you nae me again !’

The firstan town that they came till,
 He bought her brooch and ring ;
 But aye he bade her turn again, 35
 And no farther gang with him.

‘ But again, dear Love, and again, dear Love,
 ‘ Will ye ne’er love me again ?
 ‘ Alas ! for loving you sae weel,
 ‘ And you nae me again !’ 40

The second town that they came till,
 His heart it grew more fain ;
 And he was as deep in love with her
 As she with him again.

The neistan town that they came till, 45
 He bought her wedding-gown ;
 And made her lady of halls and bowers,
 In bonny Berwick town.

THE GAY GOSHAWK

'O WELL is me, my gay goshawk,
 'That you can speak and flee ;
 'For you can carry a love-letter
 'To my true Love from me.'

—'O how can I carry a letter to her? 5
 'Or how should I her know ?
 'I bear a tongue ne'er with her spake,
 'And eyes that ne'er her saw.'

—'O well shall ye my true Love ken
 'So soon as ye her see : 10
 'For of all the flowers of fair England,
 'The fairest flower is she.

'And when she goes into the house,
 'Sit ye upon the whin ;
 'And sit you there and sing our loves 15
 'As she goes out and in.'

Lord William has written a love-letter,
 Put it under his pinion gray :
 And he's awa' to Southern land
 As fast as wings can gae. 20

And first he sang a low, low, note,
 And then he sang a clear ;
 And aye the o'erword of the sang
 Was 'Your Love can no win here.'

' Feast on, feast on, my maidens all, 25

‘The wine flows you amang;

‘While I gang to my shot-window

‘And hear yon bonnie bird’s sang.’

O, first he sang a merry sang,

And then he sang a grave : 30

And then he peck'd his feathers gray ;

To her the letter gave.

‘Have there a letter from Lord William :

‘ He says, he sent ye three ;

'He can not wait your love longer, 35

‘But for your sake he’ll die.’

—‘ I send him the rings from my white fingers,

‘ The garlands of my hair ;

‘ I send him the heart that’s in my breast ;

'What would my Love have mair?' 40

‘And at Mary’s kirk in fair Scotland,

'Ye'll bid him wait for me there.'

She hied her to her father dear

As fast as go could she :

'An asking, an asking, my father dear, 45

'An asking grant you me!

'That if I die in fair England,

' In Scotland bury me.

'At the first kirk of fair Scotland,

'You cause the bells be rung ; 50

'At the second kirk of fair Scotland,

‘You cause the mass be sung ;

‘And when ye come to Saint Mary’s kirk,

'Ye'll tarry there till night.'

And so her father pledged his word, 55

And so his promise plight.

27 shot-window, window with shutter 41 kirk, church

52 mass, service 56 plight, gave

The lady's gone to her chamber
 As fast as she could fare ;
 And she has drunk a sleepy draught
 That she had mix'd with care. 60

And pale, pale, grew her rosy cheek,
 And pale and cold was she :—
 She seem'd to be as surely dead
 As any corpse could be.

Then spake her cruel stepminnie, 65
 'Take ye the burning lead,
 'And drop a drop on her bosom,
 'To try if she be dead.'

They dropp'd the hot lead on her cheek,
 They dropp'd it on her chin, 70
 They dropp'd it on her bosom white ;
 But she spake none again.

Then up arose her seven brethren,
 And hew'd to her a bier ;
 They hew'd it from the solid oak ; 75
 Laid it o'er with silver clear.

The first Scots kirk that they came to
 They gart the bells be rung ;
 The next Scots kirk that they came to
 They gart the mass be sung. 80

But when they came to Saint Mary's kirk,
 There stood spearmen in a row ;
 And up and started Lord William,
 The chieftain among them a'.

He rent the sheet upon her face 85
 A little above her chin :
 With rosy cheek, and ruby lip,
 She look'd and laugh'd to him.

—‘ A morsel of your bread, my lord !
 ‘ And one glass of your wine ! 90
 ‘ For I have fasted these three long days
 ‘ All for your sake and mine ! ’

THE MARINERS OF ENGLAND

YE Mariners of England
 That guard our native seas !
 Whose flag has braved, a thousand years,
 The battle and the breeze !
 Your glorious standard launch again 5
 To match another foe :
 And sweep through the deep,
 While the stormy winds do blow ;
 While the battle rages loud and long
 And the stormy winds do blow. 10

The spirits of your fathers
 Shall start from every wave—
 For the deck it was their field of fame,
 And Ocean was their grave :
 Where Blake and mighty Nelson fell 15
 Your manly hearts shall glow,
 As ye sweep through the deep,
 While the stormy winds do blow ;
 While the battle rages loud and long
 And the stormy winds do blow. 20

Britannia needs no bulwarks,
 No towers along the steep ;
 Her march is o’er the mountain waves,
 Her home is on the deep.
 With thunders from her native oak 25
 She quells the floods below—

5 standard, flag of England 15 Blake, admiral under the Commonwealth 21 Our island needs no coast fortifications

As they roar on the shore,
 When the stormy winds do blow ;
 When the battle rages loud and long,
 And the stormy winds do blow. 30

The meteor-flag of England
 Shall yet terrific burn ;
 Till danger's troubled night depart
 And the star of peace return.
 Then, then, ye ocean-warriors ! 35
 Our song and feast shall flow
 To the fame of your name,
 When the storm has ceased to blow ;
 When the fiery fight is heard no more,
 And the storm has ceased to blow.

BEFORE BATTLE

THE signal to engage shall be
 A whistle and a hollo ;
 Be one and all but firm, like me,
 And conquest soon will follow !
 You, Gunnel, keep the helm in hand— 5
 Thus, thus, boys ! steady, steady
 Till right a-head you see the land,—
 Then soon as we are ready,
 —The signal to engage shall be
 A whistle and a hollo ; 10
 Be one and all but firm, like me,
 And conquest soon will follow !

Keep, boys, a good look out, d'ye hear ?
 'Tis for Old England's honour ;
 Just as you brought your lower tier 15
 Broad-side to bear upon her,

31 meteor-flag, streaming like a flying star 15 tier, a row of cannon 16 bear upon, be pointed towards

—The signal to engage shall be
 A whistle and a hollo ;
 Be one and all but firm, like me,
 And conquest soon will follow ! 20

All hands then, lads, the ship to clear ;
 Load all your guns and mortars ;
 Silent as death th' attack prepare ;
 And, when you're all at quarters,
 —The signal to engage shall be 25
 A whistle and a hollo ;
 Be one and all but firm, like me,
 And conquest soon will follow !

CASABIANCA

A True Story

THE boy stood on the burning deck,
 Whence all but he had fled ;
 The flame that lit the battle's wreck,
 Shone round him o'er the dead ;
 Yet beautiful and bright he stood 5
 As born to rule the storm !
 A creature of heroic blood,
 A proud, though child-like form !

The flames roll'd on—he would not go
 Without his Father's word ; 10
 That Father, faint in death below,
 His voice no longer heard.
 He call'd aloud : ' Say, father, say
 ' If yet my task is done !'
 He knew not that the chieftain lay 15
 Unconscious of his son.

' Speak, father ! ' once again he cried,
 ' If I may yet be gone ! '
 And but the booming shots replied,
 And fast the flames roll'd on. 20
 Upon his brow he felt their breath,
 And in his waving hair ;
 And look'd from that lone post of death
 In still, yet brave despair ;
 And shouted but once more aloud, 25
 ' My father ! must I stay ? '
 While o'er him fast through sail and shroud,
 The wreathing fires made way.
 They wrapt the ship in splendour wild,
 They caught the flag on high, 30
 And stream'd above the gallant child
 Like banners in the sky.
 There came a burst of thunder-sound—
 The boy—O ! where was he ?
 —Ask of the winds that far around 35
 With fragments strew'd the sea,
 With mast, and helm, and pennon fair,
 That well had borne their part ;
 But the noblest thing which perish'd there
 Was that young faithful heart ! 40

THE LOSS OF THE BIRKENHEAD :

Supposed to be told by a Soldier who survived

RIGHT on our flank the crimson sun went down ;
 The deep sea roll'd around in dark repose ;
 When, like the wild shriek from some captured town,
 A cry of women rose.

19 but, only : booming, deep sounding 37 pennon, small flag
 1 flank, side 3 captured, taken in war

The stout ship Birkenhead lay hard and fast, 5
Caught without hope upon a hidden rock ;
Her timbers thrill'd as nerves, when through them pass'd

The spirit of that shock.

And ever like base cowards, who leave their ranks
In danger's hour, before the rush of steel, 10
Drifted away disorderly the planks
From underneath her keel.

So calm the air, so calm and still the flood,
That low down in its blue translucent glass
We saw the great fierce fish, that thirst for blood, 15
Pass slowly, then repass.

They tarried, the waves tarried, for their prey !
The sea turn'd one clear smile ! Like things asleep
Those dark shapes in the azure silence lay,
As quiet as the deep. 20

Then amidst oath, and prayer, and rush, and wreck,
Faint screams, faint questions waiting no reply,
Our Colonel gave the word, and on the deck
Form'd us in line to die.

To die !—'twas hard, whilst the sleek ocean glow'd 25
Beneath a sky as fair as summer flowers :—
All to the boats ! cried one :—he was, thank God,
No officer of ours !

Our English hearts beat true :—we would not stir :
That base appeal we heard, but heeded not : 30
On land, on sea, we had our Colours, Sir,
To keep without a spot !

They shall not say in England, that we fought
With shameful strength, unhonour'd life to seek ;
Into mean safety, mean deserters, brought 35
By trampling down the weak.

So we made women with their children go,
 The oars ply back again, and yet again ;
 Whilst, inch by inch, the drowning ship sank low,
 Still under steadfast men. 40

—What follows, why recall?—The brave who died,
 Died without flinching in the bloody surf,
 They sleep as well, beneath that purple tide,
 As others under turf :—

They sleep as well ! and, roused from their wild grave, 45
 Wearing their wounds like stars, shall rise again,
 Joint-heirs with Christ, because they bled to save
 His weak ones, not in vain.

THE 'NORTHERN STAR'

A Tynemouth Ship

THE 'Northern Star'
 Sail'd over the bar
 Bound to the Baltic Sea ;
 In the morning gray
 She stretch'd away :— 5
 'Twas a weary day to me !

For many an hour
 In sleet and shower
 By the lighthouse rock I stray ;
 And watch till dark 10
 For the wingéd bark
 Of him that is far away.

The castle's bound
 I wander round,
 Amidst the grassy graves : 15

But all I hear
Is the north-wind drear,
And all I see are the waves.

The 'Northern Star'
Is set afar ! 20
Set in the Baltic Sea :
And the waves have spread
The sandy bed
That holds my Love from me.

THE OFFICER'S GRAVE

THERE is in the wide, lone sea
A spot unmark'd but holy ;
For there the gallant and the free
In his ocean-bed lies lowly.

Down, down, within the deep 5
That oft to triumph bore him,
He sleeps a sound and pleasant sleep
With the salt waves dashing o'er him.

He sleeps serene and safe
From tempest or from billow, 10
Where the storms that high above him chafe
Scarce rock his peaceful pillow.

The sea and him in death
They did not dare to sever :
It was his home while he had breath : 15
'Tis now his rest for ever !

Sleep on, thou mighty dead !
A glorious tomb they've found thee ;
The broad blue sky above thee spread :
The boundless waters round thee. 20

LOSS OF THE ROYAL GEORGE

TOLL for the Brave !
 The brave that are no more !
 All sunk beneath the wave
 Fast by their native shore !

Eight hundred of the brave
 Whose courage well was tried,
 Had made the vessel heel
 And laid her on her side.

A land-breeze shook the shrouds
 And she was overset ; 10
 Down went the Royal George,
 With all her crew complete.

Toll for the brave !
 Brave Kempenfelt is gone ;
 His last sea-fight is fought, 15
 His work of glory done.

It was not in the battle ;
 No tempest gave the shock ;
 She sprang no fatal leak,
 She ran upon no rock. 20

His sword was in its sheath.
 His fingers held the pen,
 When Kempenfelt went down.
 With twice four hundred men.

—Weigh the vessel up 25
 Once dreaded by our foes !
 And mingle with our cup
 The tears that England owes.

Her timbers yet are sound,
And she may float again 30
Full charged with England's thunder,
And plough the distant main :

But Kempenfelt is gone,
His victories are o'er ;
And he and his eight hundred 35
Shall plough the wave no more.

THE SAILOR'S WIFE

AND are ye sure the news is true ?
And are ye sure he's weel ?
Is this a time to think o' wark ?
Ye jades, lay by your wheel ;
Is this the time to spin a thread, 5
When Colin's at the door ?
Reach down my cloak, I'll to the quay,
And see him come ashore.
For there's nae luck about the house,
There's nae luck at a' ; 10
There's little pleasure in the house

And gie to me my bigonet,
My bishop's satin gown ;
For I maun tell the bailie's wife 15

 And Jock his Sunday coat ;
 And mak their shoon as black as slaes, 25

 It's a' to please my ain gudeman,
 For he's been long awa'.

There's twa fat hens upo' the coop
 Been fed this month and mair ; 30
 Mak haste and thraw their necks about,
 That Colin weel may fare ;
 And spread the table neat and clean,
 Gar ilka thing look braw,
 For wha can tell how Colin fared 35
 When he was far awa' ?

Sae true his heart, sae smooth his speech,
 His breath like caller air ;
 His very foot has music in't
 As he comes up the stair :— 40
 And will I see his face again ?
 And will I hear him speak ?
 I'm downright dizzy wi' the thought,
 In troth I'm like to greet.

If Colin's weel, and weel content, 45
 I hae nae mair to crave,
 And gin I live to keep him sae,
 I'm blest aboon the lave :
 And will I see his face again,
 And will I hear him speak ? 50
 I'm downright dizzy wi' the thought,
 In troth I'm like to greet.

 Hark ! now I hear them—

 To rear him hillocks that shall keep him warm,

THE SOLITUDE OF ALEXANDER SELKIRK

I AM monarch of all I survey ;
 My right there is none to dispute ;
 From the centre all round to the sea
 I am lord of the fowl and the brute.
 O Solitude ! where are the charms 5
 That sages have seen in thy face ?
 Better dwell in the midst of alarms
 Then reign in this horrible place.
 I am out of humanity's reach,
 I must finish my journey alone, 10
 Never hear the sweet music of speech ;
 I start at the sound of my own.
 The beasts that roam over the plain
 My form with indifference see ;
 They are so unacquainted with man, 15
 Their tameness is shocking to me.
 Society, Friendship, and Love,
 Divinely bestow'd upon man,
 O had I the wings of a dove
 How soon would I taste you again ! 20
 My sorrows I then might assuage
 In the ways of religion and truth,
 Might learn from the wisdom of age,
 And be cheer'd by the sallies of youth.
 Ye winds that have made me your sport, 25
 Convey to this desolate shore
 Some cordial endearing report
 Of a land I shall visit no more :—
 My friends, do they now and then send
 A wish or a thought after me ? 30
 O tell me I yet have a friend,
 Though a friend I am never to see !

How fleet is a glance of the mind !
 Compared with the speed of its flight,
 The tempest itself lags behind, 35
 And the swift-wingéd arrows of light.
 When I think of my own native land
 In a moment I seem to be there ;
 But alas ! recollection at hand
 Soon hurries me back to despair. 40

—But the seafowl is gone to her nest,
 The beast is laid down in his lair ;
 Even here is a season of rest,
 And I to my cabin repair.
 There's mercy in every place, 45
 And mercy, encouraging thought !
 Gives even affliction a grace,
 And reconciles man to his lot.

AT SEA

A WET sheet and a flowing sea,
 A wind that follows fast
 And fills the white and rustling sail
 And bends the gallant mast ;
 And bends the gallant mast, my boys, 5
 While like the eagle free
 Away the good ship flies, and leaves
 Old England on the lee.
 O for a soft and gentle wind !
 I heard a fair one cry ; 10
 But give to me the snoring breeze
 And white waves heaving high ;

33 glance, thought 42 lair, den 44 repair, go 48 makes us content with life 1 sheet, sail-ropes 8 lee, behind

And white waves heaving high, my lads,
 The good ship tight and free :—
 The world of waters is our home, 15
 And merry men are we.

There's tempest in yon hornéd moon,
 And lightning in yon cloud ;
 But hark the music, mariners !
 The wind is piping loud ; 20
 The wind is piping loud, my boys,
 The lightning flashes free—
 While the hollow oak our palace is,
 Our heritage the sea.

The palm and may make country houses gay, 5
 Lambs frisk and play, the shepherds pipe all day,
 And we hear aye birds tune this merry lay,
 Cuckoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo.

The fields breathe sweet, the daisies kiss our feet,
 Young lovers meet, old wives a-sunning sit, 10
 In every street these tunes our ears do greet,
 Cuckoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo !

COUNTRY SCENES IN OLD DAYS

Day-break

SEE the day begins to break,
 And the light shoots like a streak
 Of subtle fire ; the wind blows cold
 While the morning doth unfold ;
 Now the birds begin to rouse, 5
 And the squirrel from the boughs
 Leaps, to get him nuts and fruit ;
 The early lark, that erst was mute,
 Carols to the rising day
 Many a note and many a lay. 10

Unfolding the Flocks

Shepherds, rise, and shake off sleep—
 See the blushing morn doth peep
 'Through the windows, while the sun
 To the mountain-tops is run,
 Gilding all the vales below 15
 With his rising flames, which grow
 Greater by his climbing still.—
 Up ! ye lazy swains ! and fill
 Bag and bottle for the field ;
 Clasp your cloaks fast, lest they yield 20
 To the bitter north-east wind.
 Call the maidens up, and find
 Who lies longest, that she may
 Be chidden for untimed delay.
 Feed your faithful dogs, and pray 25
 Heaven to keep you from decay ;
 So unfold, and then away.

Folding the Flocks

Shepherds all, and maidens fair,
 Fold your flocks up ; for the air
 'Gins to thicken, and the sun 30
 Already his great course hath run.

See the dew-drops how they kiss
 Every little flower that is ;
 Hanging on their velvet heads,
 Like a rope of crystal beads. 35
 See the heavy clouds low falling,
 And bright Hesperus down calling
 The dead Night from underground ;
 At whose rising, mists unsound,
 Damps and vapours, fly apace, 40
 Hovering o'er the wanton face
 Of these pastures, where they come
 Striking dead both bud and bloom :
 Therefore from such danger lock
 Every one his lovéd flock ; 45
 And let your dogs lie loose without,
 Lest the wolf come as a scout
 From the mountain, and ere day
 Bear a lamb or kid away ;
 Or the crafty, thievish fox 50
 Break upon your simple flocks.
 To secure yourself from these
 Be not too secure in ease ;
 So shall you good shepherds prove,
 And deserve your master's love. 55
 Now, good night ! may sweetest slumbers
 And soft silence fall in numbers
 On your eye-lids ! so farewell ;
 —Thus I end my evening's knell.

J. Fletcher

THE COUNTRY LIFE

SWEET country life, to such unknown
 Whose lives are others', not their own,
 But, serving courts and cities, be Less happy, less enjoying thee :—

—Thou never plough'st the ocean's foam 5
 To seek and bring rough pepper home ;
 Nor to the Eastern Ind dost rove
 To bring from thence the scōrchéd clove ;
 Nor, with the loss of thy loved rest,
 Bring'st home the ingot from the west : 10
 No ! thy ambition's masterpiece
 Flies no thought higher than a fleece ;
 Or how to pay thy hinds, and clear
 All scores, and so to end the year :
 But walk'st about thine own dear bounds, 15
 Not envying others' larger grounds ;
 For well thou know'st 'tis not the extent
 Of land makes life, but sweet content.
 When now the cock, the ploughman's horn,
 Calls forth the lily-wristed morn, 20
 Then to thy cornfields thou dost go,
 Which though well soil'd, yet thou dost know
 That the best compost for the lands
 Is the wise master's feet and hands :
 There at the plough thou find'st thy team, 25
 With a hind whistling there to them ;
 And cheer'st them up, by singing how
 The kingdom's portion is the plough :
 This done, then to th' enamell'd meads
 Thou go'st, and as thy foot there treads, 30
 Thou seest a present God-like power
 Imprinted in each herb and flower ;
 And smell'st the breath of great-eyed kine
 Sweet as the blossoms of the vine :
 Here thou behold'st thy large sleek neat 35
 Unto the dew-laps up in meat ;
 And as thou look'st, the wanton steer,
 The heifer, cow, and ox draw near,
 To make a pleasing pastime there :—

10 ingot, gold or silver bars 11 thy highest wish 17 extent, size
 20 lily, white 23 compost, manure 29 enamell'd, brightly-coloured

These seen, thou go'st to view thy flocks 40
 Of sheep, safe from the wolf and fox,
 And find'st their bellies there as full
 Of short sweet grass, as backs with wool ;
 And leav'st them, as they feed and fill,
 A shepherd piping on a hill. 45
 For sports, for pageantry and plays,
 Thou hast thy eves and holydays ;
 On which the young men and maids meet
 To exercise their dancing feet,
 Tripping the comely country round, 50
 With daffodils and daisies crown'd.
 Thy wakes, thy quintels, here thou hast,
 Thy May-poles too with garlands graced,
 Thy morris-dance, thy Whitsun-ale,
 Thy shearing-feast, which never fail, 55
 Thy harvest home, thy wassail bowl,
 That's toss'd up after Fox'i'th'hole,
 Thy mummeries, thy twelfth-tide kings
 And queens, thy Christmas revellings,—
 Thy nut-brown mirth, thy russet wit, 60
 And no man pays too dear for it :—
 To these, thou hast thy times to go
 And trace the hare i'th'treacherous snow ;
 Thy witty wiles to draw, and get
 The lark into the trammel net ; 65
 Thou hast thy cockrood and thy glade
 To take the precious pheasant made ;
 Thy lime-twigs, snares, and pitfalls then
 To catch the pilfering birds, not men.

 O happy life ! if that their good 70
 The husbandmen but understood ;

46 pageantry, shows 52 quintels, a game in which poles were run at a post 54 morris, mumming 56 wassail-bowl, cup of old ale 57 Fox, a game in which boys hopped and flogged each other 60 russet, homely 62 Besides 64 witty, clever 65 trammel, fowling 66 cockrood, see end

Who all the day themselves do please
 And younglings, with such sports as these ;
 And, lying down, have nought t'affright
 Sweet sleep, that makes more short the night. 75

THE PASSIONATE SHEPHERD TO HIS LOVE

COME live with me and be my Love,
 And we will all the pleasures prove
 That hills and valleys, dale and field,
 And all the craggy mountains yield.

There will we sit upon the rocks 5
 And see the shepherds feed their flocks,
 By shallow rivers, to whose falls
 Melodious birds sing madrigals.

There will I make thee beds of roses
 And a thousand fragrant posies, 10
 A cap of flowers, and a kirtle
 Embroider'd all with leaves of myrtle.

A gown made of the finest wool,
 Which from our pretty lambs we pull,
 Fair lined slippers for the cold, 15
 With buckles of the purest gold.

A belt of straw and ivy buds
 With coral clasps and amber studs :
 And if these pleasures may thee move,
 Come live with me and be my Love. 20

Thy silver dishes for thy meat
 As precious as the gods do eat,
 Shall on an ivory table be Prepared each day for thee and me.

The shepherd swains shall dance and sing 25
 For thy delight each May-morning :
 If these delights thy mind may move,
 Then live with me and be my Love.

THE REAPER

BEHOLD her, single in the field,
 Yon solitary Highland Lass !
 Reaping and singing by herself ;
 Stop here, or gently pass !
 Alone she cuts and binds the grain, 5
 And sings a melancholy strain ;
 O listen ! for the vale profound
 Is overflowing with the sound.
 No nightingale did ever chaunt
 More welcome notes to weary bands 10
 Of travellers, in some shady haunt
 Among Arabian sands :
 No sweeter voice was ever heard
 In spring-time from the cuckoo-bird,
 Breaking the silence of the seas 15
 Among the farthest Hebrides.
 Will no one tell me what she sings ?
 Perhaps the plaintive numbers flow
 For old, unhappy, far-off things,
 And battles long ago : 20
 Or is it some more humble lay,
 Familiar matter of to-day ?
 Some natural sorrow, loss, or pain,
 That has been, and may be again ?
 Whate'er the theme, the maiden sang 25
 As if her song could have no ending ;
 I saw her singing at her work,
 And o'er the sickle bending ;

25 theme, subject of her song

I listen'd till I had my fill ;
And as I mounted up the hill 30
The music in my heart I bore
Long after it was heard no more.

NEW AND OLD

GLAD sight, wherever new with old
Is join'd through some dear homeborn tie ;
The life of all that we behold
Depends upon that mystery.
Vain is the glory of the sky, 5
The beauty vain of field and grove,
Unless, while with admiring eye
We gaze, we also learn to love.

AUTUMN

A Dirge

The warm sun is failing, the bleak wind is wailing,
The bare boughs are sighing, the pale flowers are dying ;

And the year
On the earth her death-bed, in a shroud of leaves dead,

Is lying. 5

Come, Months, come away,
From November to May.

In your saddest array,—
Follow the bier

Of the dead cold year, 10
And like dim shadows watch by her sepulchre.

The chill rain is falling, the nipt worm is crawling,
The rivers are swelling, the thunder is knelling,

For the year ;

The blithe swallows are flown, and the lizards each gone 15

To his dwelling.

Come, Months, come away ;

Put on white, black, and gray ;

Let your light sisters play ;

Ye, follow the bier 20

Of the dead cold year,

And make her grave green with tear on tear.

THE COUNTRYMAN

WHAT pleasures have great princes

More dainty to their choice,

Than herdmen wild, who careless

In quiet life rejoice ;

And fortune's favours scorning, 5

Sing sweet in summer morning.

All day their flocks each tendeth ;

At night they take their rest ;

More quiet than who sendeth

His ship into the east, 10

Where gold and pearl are plenty,

But getting very dainty.

For lawyers and their pleading,

They 'steem it not á straw :—

They think that honest meaning 15

Is of itself a law :

Where conscience judgeth plainly,

They spend no money vainly.

19 the summer months

12 dainty, difficult

14 'steem, value

O happy who thus liveth,
 Not caring much for gold ; 20
 With clothing, which sufficeth
 To keep him from the cold :—
 Though poor and plain his diet,
 Yet merry it is and quiet.

TO A MOUNTAIN DAISY .

VEE, modest, crimson-tippéd flower,
 Thou's met me in an evil hour ;
 For I maun crush amang the stour
 Thy slender stem ;
 To spare thee now is past my power, 5
 Thou bonnie gem.

Alas ! it's no thy neebor sweet,
 The bonnie lark, companion meet !
 Bending thee 'mang the dewy weet
 Wi' spreckled breast, 10
 When upward springing, blythe, to greet
 The purpling east.

Cauld blew the bitter-biting north
 Upon thy early, humble, birth ;
 Yet cheerfully thou glinted forth 15
 Amid the storm ;
 Scarce rear'd above the parent earth
 Thy tender form.

The flaunting flowers our gardens yield
 High sheltering woods and wa's maun shield, 20
 But thou beneath the random bield
 O' clod or stane
 Adorns the histie stibble-field,
 Unseen, alane.

3 maun , must :	stour , dust	7 no , not :	neebor , neighbour
8 meet , fit	9 weet , wet	10 spreckled , speckled

20 wa's , walls	21 bield , shelter	23 histie , dry :	stibble , stubble

There, in thy scanty mantle clad, 25
 Thy snawy bosom sunward spread,
 Thou lifts thy unassuming head
 In humble guise ;
 But now the share uptears thy bed,
 And low thou lies ! 30

THE WHIRL-BLAST

A WHIRL-BLAST from behind the hill
 Rush'd o'er the wood with startling sound ;
 Then—all at once the air was still,
 And showers of hailstones patter'd round.
 Where leafless oaks tower'd high above, 5
 I sat within an undergrove
 Of tallest hollies, tall and green ;
 A fairer bower was never seen.
 From year to year the spacious floor
 With wither'd leaves is cover'd o'er, 10
 And all the year the bower is green ;
 But see ! where'er the hailstones drop
 The wither'd leaves all skip and hop ;
 There's not a breeze—no breath of air—
 Yet here, and there, and every where 15
 Along the floor, beneath the shade
 By those embowering hollies made,
 The leaves in myriads jump and spring,
 As if with pipes and music rare
 Some Robin Goodfellow were there, 20
 And all those leaves, in festive glee,
 Were dancing to the minstrelsy.

WINTER

WHEN icicles hang by the wall,
And Dick the shepherd blows his nail,
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail ;
When blood is nipt, and ways be foul, 5
Then nightly sings the staring owl
Tuwhoo !
Tuwhit ! tuwhoo ! A merry note !
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

When all around the wind doth blow, 10
And coughing drowns the parson's saw,
And birds sit brooding in the snow,
And Marian's nose looks red and raw ;
When roasted crabs hiss in the bowl—
Then nightly sings the staring owl . 15
 Tuwhoo !
Tuwhit ! tuwhoo ! A merry note !
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

FOCK OF HAZELDEAN

‘WHY weep ye by the tide, ladie ?
 ‘Why weep ye by the tide ?
 ‘I’ll wed ye to my youngest son,
 ‘And ye sall be his bride :
 ‘And ye sall be his bride, ladie,
 ‘Sae comely to be seen’—
 But aye she loot the tears down fa’
 For Jock of Hazeldean.

9 keel, skim 11 saw, speech 14 crabs, wild apples
7 loot, let : fa' fall

' Now let this wilfu' grief be done,
 ' And dry that cheek so pale ; 10
 ' Young Frank is chief of Errington,
 ' And lord of Langley-dale ;
 ' His step is first in peaceful ha',
 ' His sword in battle keen'—
 But aye she loot the tears down fa' 15
 For Jock of Hazeldean.

' A chain of gold ye sall not lack,
 ' Nor braid to bind your hair,
 ' Nor mettled hound, nor managed hawk,
 ' Nor palfrey fresh and fair ; 20
 ' And you the foremost o' them a'
 ' Sall ride our forest-queen'—
 But aye she loot the tears down fa'
 For Jock of Hazeldean.

The kirk was deck'd at morning-tide, 25
 The tapers glimmer'd fair ;
 The priest and bridegroom wait the bride,
 And dame and knight are there :
 They sought her baith by bower and ha' ;
 The ladie was not seen ! 30
 She's o'er the Border, and awa'
 Wi' Jock of Hazeldean.

THE OUTLAW

O BRIGNALL banks are wild and fair,
 And Greta woods are green,
 And you may gather garlands there
 Would grace a summer-queen.

Outlaw, man driven out to live by himself, a robber

And as I rode by Dalton-Hall 5
 Beneath the turrets high,
 A Maiden on the castle-wall
 Was singing merrily :
 ‘ O Brignall Banks are fresh and fair,
 ‘ And Greta woods are green ; 10
 ‘ I’d rather rove with Edmund there
 ‘ Than reign our English queen.’

—‘ If, Maiden, thou wouldst wend with me,
 ‘ To leave both tower and town,
 ‘ Thou first must guess what life lead we 15
 ‘ That dwell by dale and down.
 ‘ And if thou canst that riddle read,
 ‘ As read full well you may,
 ‘ Then to the greenwood shalt thou speed
 ‘ As blithe as Queen of May.’ 20
 Yet sung she, ‘ Brignall banks are fair,
 ‘ And Greta woods are green ;
 ‘ I’d rather rove with Edmund there
 ‘ Than reign our English queen.’

‘ I read you by your bugle-horn 25
 ‘ And by your palfrey good,
 ‘ I read you for a ranger sworn
 ‘ To keep the king’s greenwood.’
 —‘ A Ranger, lady, winds his horn,
 ‘ And ’tis at peep of light ; 30
 ‘ His blast is heard at merry morn,
 ‘ And mine at dead of night.’
 Yet sung she ‘ Brignall banks are fair,
 ‘ And Greta woods are gay ;
 ‘ I would I were with Edmund there 35
 ‘ To reign his Queen of May !

- ' With burnish'd brand and musketoon
 ' So gallantly you come.
 ' I read you for a bold Dragoon
 ' That lists the tuck of drum.' 40
 — ' I list no more the tuck of drum,
 ' No more the trumpet hear ;
 ' But when the beetle sounds his hum
 ' My comrades take the spear.
 ' And O ! though Brignall banks be fair 45
 ' And Greta woods be gay,
 ' Yet mickle must the maiden dare
 ' Would reign my Queen of May !
 ' Maiden ! a nameless life I lead,
 ' A nameless death I'll die ! 50
 ' The fiend whose lantern lights the mead
 ' Were better mate than I !
 ' And when I'm with my comrades met
 ' Beneath the greenwood bough
 ' What once we were we all forget, 55
 ' Nor think what we are now.'

Chorus

- Yet Brignall banks are fresh and fair,
 And Greta woods are green,
 And you may gather garlands there
 Would grace a summer-queen. 60

EDWIN AND ANGELINA

- ' TURN, gentle Hermit of the dale,
 ' And guide my lonely way
 ' To where yon taper cheers the vale
 ' With hospitable ray.

37 brand, sword : musketoon, blunderbuss 40 tuck, beat
 47 mickle, much 51 Will o' the Wisp

‘ For here forlorn and lost I tread, 5
 ‘ With fainting steps and slow,
 ‘ Where wilds, immeasurably spread,
 ‘ Seem lengthening as I go.’

—‘ Forbear, my son,’ the Hermit cries,
 ‘ To tempt the dangerous gloom, 10
 ‘ For yonder faithless phantom flies
 ‘ To lure thee to thy doom.

Here to the houseless child of want ‘ My door is open still ;
 ‘ And though my portion is but scant 15
 ‘ I give it with goodwill.

‘ Then turn to-night, and freely share
 ‘ Whate’er my cell bestows ;
 ‘ My rushy couch and frugal fare,
 ‘ My blessing and repose. 20

‘ No flocks that range the valley free
 ‘ To slaughter I condemn ;
 ‘ Taught by that Power that pities me,
 ‘ I learn to pity them :

‘ But from the mountain’s grassy side 25
 ‘ A guiltless feast I bring :
 ‘ A scrip with herbs and fruits supplied,
 ‘ And water from the spring.

‘ Then, pilgrim ! turn ; thy cares forego ;
 ‘ All earth-born cares are wrong : 30
 ‘ Man wants but little here below,
 ‘ Nor wants that little long.’

Soft as the dew from heaven descends
 His gentle accents fell :
 The modest stranger lowly bends, 35
 And follows to the cell.

Far in a wilderness-obscure
 The lonely mansion lay,
 A refuge to the neighbouring poor,
 And strangers led astray. 40

No stores beneath its humble thatch
 Required a master's care,
 The wicket, opening with a latch,
 Received the harmless pair.

And now, when busy crowds retire 45
 To take their evening rest,
 The hermit trimm'd his little fire,
 And cheer'd his pensive guest:

And spread his vegetable store,
 And gaily press'd and smiled ; 50
 And skill'd in legendary lore,
 The lingering hours beguiled.

Around, in sympathetic mirth,
 Its tricks the kitten tries ;
 The cricket chirrups on the hearth, 55
 The crackling fagot flies.

But nothing could a charm impart
 To soothe the stranger's woe ;
 For grief was heavy at his heart,
 And tears began to flow. 60

His rising cares the Hermit spied,
 With answering care oppress'd :
 And ' Whence, unhappy youth,' he cried,
 ' The sorrows of thy breast ?

THE LASS OF LOCHROYAN

- ' O WHO will shoe my bonny foot,
 ' And who will glove my hand?
 And who will lace my middle jimp
 ' Wi' a long, long, linen band?
- ' Or who will kaim my yellow hair 5
 ' Wi' a new-made silver kaim?
- ' O who will father my young son
 ' Till Lord Gregory comes hame?
- ' O if I had a bonny ship,
 ' And men to sail wi' me, 10
 ' It's I would gang to my true Love,
 ' Since he winna come to me ! '
- Then she's gar'd build a bonny boat,
 To sail the salt, salt sea :
 The sails were of the light-green silk, 15
 And the ropes of taffetie.
- She had not been on the sea sailing
 About a month or more,
 Till landed has she her bonny ship
 Near to her true Love's door. 20
- She's ta'en her young son in her arms
 And to the door she's gane ;
 And long she knock'd, and sair she call'd,
 But answer got she nane.
- ' O open the door, Lord Gregory ! 25
 ' O open, and let me in !
 ' For the wind blows through my yellow hair,
 ' And the rain drops o'er my chin.'

Long stood she at Lord Gregory's door,
And long she tirl'd the pin ; 30

At length up gat his false mother,
Says, ' Who's that would be in ?'

— ' O it's Annie of Lochroyan,
' Your Love, come o'er the sea,
' But and your young son in her arms ; 35
' So open the door to me.'

— ' Away, away, ye ill woman !
' You're not come here for gude ;
' You're but a witch, or a vile warlock,
' Or a mermaid o' the flood.' 40

— ' I'm no a witch, nor vile warlock,
' Nor mermaiden,' said she ;
' But I am Annie of Lochroyan,—
' O open the door to me !'

— ' If thou be Annie of Lochroyan 45
' (As I trow ye binna she),
' Now tell me some of the love-tokens
' That pass'd 'tween me and thee.'

— ' O dinna ye mind, Lord Gregory,
' As we sat at the wine, 50
' How we changed the rings from our fingers,
' And I can show thee thine ?'

' O yours was good, and good enough,
' But not so good as mine ;
' For yours was o' the good red gold, 55
' But mine of the diamond fine.

' So open the door, Love Gregory,
' And open it with speed ;
' Or your young son that's in my arms,
' For cold will soon be dead.' 60

30 tirl'd, twisted the latch

35 But and, and also

—‘ Away, away, ye ill woman !

‘ Go from my door for shame !

‘ For I have gotten another Love,

‘ So you may hie you hame.’

Fair Annie turn’d her round about ; 65

‘ Well ! since that it be sae,

‘ May never a woman, that has borne a son,

‘ Have a heart so full of wae !

‘ Take down, take down, the mast of gold,

‘ Set up the mast o’ tree ; 70

‘ It ill becomes a forsaken lady

‘ To sail so gallantlie.’

Lord Gregory started from his sleep,

And to his mother did say,

‘ I dreamt a dream, this night, mother, 75

‘ That makes my heart right wae.

‘ I dreamt that Annie of Lochroyan,

‘ The flower of all her kin,

‘ E’en now was standing at my door,

‘ But none would let her in.’ 80

—‘ O there was a woman stood at the door,

‘ With a bairn intill her arm ;

‘ But I could not let her come within,

‘ For fear she had done you harm.’

—‘ O wae betide ye, ill woman ! 85

‘ An ill death may ye dee !

‘ That wadna open the door to her,

Nor yet would waken me !’

O, he’s gone down to yon shore side

As fast as he could fare ; 90

He saw fair Annie in the boat,

But the wind it toss’d her sair.

And 'hey, Annie !' and 'how, Annie !'
 'O Annie, winna ye bide ?'
 But aye the mair he cried 'Annie,' 95
 The broader grew the tide.

And 'hey, Annie !' and 'how, Annie !'
 'O Annie, speak to me !'
 But aye the louder he cried 'Annie,'
 The louder roar'd the sea. 100

The wind blew loud, the sea grew rough,
 And the ship was rent in twain :
 And soon he saw his fair Annie
 Come floating o'er the main.

He saw his young son in her arms, 105
 Both toss'd above the tide ;
 He wrang his hands, and fast he ran
 And plunged in the sea sae wide.

He catch'd her by the yellow hair,
 And drew her up on the sand ; 110
 But cold and stiff was every limb
 Before he reach'd the land.

And then he kiss'd her on the cheek,
 And kiss'd her on the chin ;
 And sair he kiss'd her on the lips ; 115
 But there was no breath within.

'O wae betide my cruel mother !
 'An ill death may she dee !
 'She turn'd fair Annie from my door,
 'Wha died for love of me !' 120

CUMNOR HALL

THE dews of summer night did fall ;
 The moon, sweet Regent of the sky,
 Silver'd the walls of Cumnor Hall,
 And many an oak that grew thereby.

Now nought was heard beneath the skies ; 5
 The sounds of busy life were still,
 Save an unhappy lady's sighs
 That issued from that lonely pile.

' Leicester !' she cried, ' is this thy love
 ' That thou so oft hast sworn to me, 10
 ' To leave me in this lonely grove,
 ' Immured in shameful privy ?

' No more thou com'st with lover's speed
 ' Thy once-belovéd bride to see ;
 ' But, be she alive, or be she dead, 15
 ' I fear, stern Earl, 's the same to thee.

' Not so the usage I received
 ' When happy in my father's hall :
 ' No faithless husband then me grieved ;
 ' No chilling fears did me appal. 20

' I rose up with the cheerful morn,
 ' No lark more blithe, no flower more gay :
 ' And like the bird that haunts the thorn,
 ' So merrily sung the live-long day.

' If that my beauty is but small, 25
 ' Among court-ladies all despised ;
 ' Why didst thou rend it from that hall
 ' Where, scornful Earl ! it well was prized ?

2 regent, ruler8 issued, came forth : pile, building12 immured, buried : privy, solitude17 usage, treatment 20 appal, frighten 27 rend, take away

' But, Leicester, (or I much am wrong),
 ' Or 'tis not beauty lures thy vows ; 30
 ' Rather, ambition's gilded crown
 ' Makes thee forget thy humble spouse.
 ' Then, Leicester, why,—again I plead,
 ' The injured surely may repine,—
 ' Why didst thou wed a country maid, 35
 ' When some fair Princess might be thine ?
 ' Why didst thou praise my humble charms,
 ' And O ! then leave them to decay ?
 ' Why didst thou win me to thy arms,
 ' Then leave to mourn the live-long day ? 40
 ' The village maidens of the plain
 ' Salute me lowly as they go :
 ' Envious they mark my silken train,
 ' Nor think a Countess can have woe.
 ' How far less blest am I than them ! 45
 ' Daily to pine and waste with care,
 ' Like the poor plant, that, from its stem
 ' Divided, feels the chilling air.
 ' My spirits flag ; my hopes decay ;
 ' Still that dread death-bell smites my ear : 50
 ' And many a boding seems to say
 ' Countess, prepare ! thy end is near !'
 Thus sore and sad the Lady grieved
 In Cumnor Hall so lone and drear ;
 And many a heartfelt sigh she heaved, 55
 And let fall many a bitter tear.
 And ere the dawn of day appear'd,
 In Cumnor Hall so lone and drear,
 Full many a piercing scream was heard,
 And many a cry of mortal fear. 60

The death-bell thrice was heard to ring ;
 An aerial voice was heard to call ;
 And thrice the raven flapp'd its wing
 Around the towers of Cumnor Hall.

The mastiff howl'd at village door ; 65
 The oaks were shatter'd on the green ;
 Woe was the hour ! for never more
 That hapless Countess e'er was seen.

And in that manor now no more
 Is cheerful feast and sprightly ball : 70
 For ever since that dreary hour
 Have spirits haunted Cumnor Hall.

The village maids, with fearful glance,
 Avoid the ancient moss-grown wall,
 Nor ever lead the merry dance 75
 Among the groves of Cumnor Hall.

Full many a traveller oft hath sigh'd,
 And pensive wept the Countess' fall,
 As wandering onwards they've espied
 The haunted towers of Cumnor Hall. 80

THE TRUE AND THE FALSE

WHERE shall the lover rest
 Whom the fates sever
 From his true maiden's breast
 Parted for ever ?
 Where, through groves deep and high 5
 Sounds the far billow,
 Where early violets die
 Under the willow :—
Eleu loro
Soft shall be his pillow. 10

There, through the summer day
 Cool streams are laving :
 There, while the tempests sway,
 Scarce are boughs waving ;
 There thy rest shalt thou take, 15
 Parted for ever,
 Never again to wake
 Never, O never !
Eleu loro
Never, O never ! 20

—Where shall the traitor rest,
 He, the deceiver,
 Who could win maiden's breast,
 Ruin, and leave her ?
 In the lost battle, 25
 Borne down by the flying,
 Where mingles war's rattle
 With groans of the dying ;
Eleu loro
There shall he be lying. 30

Her wing shall the eagle flap
 O'er the falsehearted ;
 His warm blood the wolf shall lap
 Ere life be parted :
 Shame and dishonour sit 35
 By his grave ever ;
 Blessing shall hallow it
 Never, O never !
Eleu loro
Never, O never ! 40

AULD ROBIN GRAY

WHEN the sheep are in the fauld, and the kye at hame,

And a' the warld to rest are gane,
The waes o' my heart fa' in showers frae my e'e,
While my gudeman lies sound by me.

Young Jamie lo'ed me weel, and sought me for his bride ; 5

But saving a croun he had naething else beside :
To make the croun a pund, young Jamie gaed to sea ; 10

And the croun and the pund were baith for me.

He hadna been awa' a week but only twa,
When my father brak his arm, and the cow was stown awa' ; 10

My mother she fell sick, and my Jamie at the sea—
And auld Robin Gray came a-courtin' me.

My father couldna work, and my mother couldna spin ;

I toil'd day and night, but their bread I couldna win ;

Auld Rob maintain'd them baith, and wi' tears in his e'e 15

' Said, Jennie, for their sakes, O, marry me ! '

My heart it said nay ; I look'd for Jamie back ;
But the wind it blew high, and the ship it was a wrack ;

His ship it was a wrack—why didna Jamie dee ?
Or why do I live to cry, Wae's me ? 20

My father urgit sair : my mother didna speak ;
 But she look'd in my face till my heart was like to

 They gi'ed him my hand, but my heart was at the sea :
 Sae auld Robin Gray he was gudeman to me.

I hadna been a wife a week but only four, 25
 When mournfu' as I sat on the stane at the door,
 I saw my Jamie's wraith, for I couldna think it he—
 Till he said, ' I'm come hame to marry thee.'

—O sair, sair did we greet, and muckle did we say ;
 We took but ae kiss, and I bad him gang away : 30
 I wish that I were dead, but I'm no like to dee ;
 And why was I born to say, Wae's me !

I gang like a ghaist, and I carena to spin ;
 I daurna think on Jamie, for that wad be a sin ;
 But I'll do my best a gude wife aye to be, 35
 For auld Robin Gray he is kind unto me.

WILLY DROWNED IN YARROW

DOWN in yon garden sweet and gay
 Where bonnie grows the lily,
 I heard a fair maid sighing say,
 ' My wish be wi' sweet Willie !

' But Willie's gone, whom I thought on, 25
 ' And does not hear me weeping ;
 ' Draws many a tear frae true love's e'e
 ' When other maids are sleeping.

' O came ye by yon water-side ?
 ' Pou'd you the rose or lily ? 30
 ' Or came you by yon meadow green,
 ' Or saw you my sweet Willie ?'

She sought him up, she sought him down,
 She sought him braid and narrow ;

 She found him drown'd in Yarrow !

LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER

A CHIEFTAIN to the Highlands bound
Cries ' Boatman, do not tarry !
' And I'll give thee a silver pound
' To row us o'er the ferry ! '

— ' Now, who be ye, would cross Lochgyle 5
' This dark and stormy water ? ' '

— ' O I'm the chief of ' Ulva's isle,
' And this, Lord Ullin's daughter.

' And fast before her father's men
' Three days we've fled together, 10
' For should he find us in the glen,
' My blood would stain the heather.

' His horsemen hard behind us ride—
' Should they our steps discover,
' Then who will cheer my bonny bride 15
' When they have slain her lover ? ' '

Out spoke the hardy Highland wight,
' I'll go, my chief, I'm ready:
' It is not for your silver bright,
' But for your winsome lady:— 20

' And by my word ! the bonny bird
' In danger shall not tarry ;
' So though the waves are raging white,
' I'll row you o'er the ferry.'

By this the storm grew loud apace, 25
The water-wraith was shrieking ;
And in the scowl of heaven each face
Grew dark as they were speaking.

But still as wilder blew the wind,
And as the night grew drearer,
Adown the glen rode arméd men,
Their trampling sounded nearer. 30

' O haste thee, haste ! ' the lady cries,
' Though tempests round us gather ;
' I'll meet the raging of the skies,
' But not an angry father ! ' 35

The boat has left a stormy land,
A stormy sea before her,—
When, O ! too strong for human hand
The tempest gather'd o'er her. 40

And still they row'd amidst the roar
Of waters fast prevailing :
Lord Ullin reach'd that fatal shore,—
His wrath was changed to wailing.

For, sore dismay'd, through storm and shade 45
His child he did discover :—
One lovely hand she stretch'd for aid,
And one was round her lover.

' Come back ! come back ! ' he cried in grief
' Across this stormy water : 50
' And I'll forgive your Highland chief :—
' My daughter !—O my daughter ! '

'Twas vain : the loud waves lash'd the shore,
Return or aid preventing :
The waters wild went o'er his child, 55
And he was left lamenting.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SENNACHERIB

THE Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold,
And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold,

And the sheen of their spears was like stars on the sea,

When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee.

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green, 5

That host with their banners at sunset were seen ;

Like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown,

That host on the morrow lay wither'd and strown.

For the Angel of Death spread his wings on the blast,

And breathed in the face of the foe as he pass'd; 10

And the eyes of the sleepers wax'd deadly and chill,

And their hearts but once heaved, and for ever grew still.

And there lay the steed with his nostril all wide,

But through it there roll'd not the breath of his pride ;

And the foam of his gasping lay white on the turf, 15

And cold as the spray of the rock-beating surf.

And there lay the rider, distorted and pale,

With the dew on his brow, and the rust on his mail ;

And the tents were all silent, the banners alone,

The lances unlifted, the trumpet unblown. 20

2 cohorts, regiments	3 sheen, shining	11 wax'd, grew
13 steed, warhorse		16 surf, waves
17 distorted, twisted in death		18 mail, armour

And the widows of Ashur are loud in their wail,
 And the idols are broke in the temple of Baal,
 And the might of the Gentile, unsmote by the sword,
 Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord !

THE SPANISH ARMADA

ATTEND all ye who list to hear our noble England's praise,
 I tell of the thrice famous deeds she wrought in ancient days,
 When that great fleet invincible against her bore in vain
 The richest spoils of Mexico, the stoutest hearts of Spain.

It was about the lovely close of a warm summer
 day, 5
 There came a gallant merchant-ship full sail to Plymouth Bay ;
 Her crew hath seen Castile's black fleet beyond
 Aurigny's isle,
 At earliest twilight, on the waves lie heaving many a mile ;
 At sunrise she escaped their van, by God's especial grace ;
 And the tall Pinta, till the noon, had held her close in chase. 10
 Forthwith a guard at every gun was placed along the wall ;
 The beacon blazed upon the roof of Edgecombe's
 lofty hall ;

Many a light fishing-bark put out to pry along the coast ;
 And with loose rein and bloody spur rode inland many a post.
 With his white hair unbonnet'd the stout old sheriff comes ; 15
 Behind him march the halberdiers, before him sound the drums ;
 His yeomen, round the market-cross, make clear an ample space,
 For there behoves him to set up the standard of her Grace.
 And haughtily the trumpets peal, and gaily dance
 the bells,
 As slow upon the labouring wind the royal blazon swells. 20
 Look how the Lion of the sea lifts up his ancient crown,
 And underneath his deadly paw treads the gay
 Lilies down.
 So stalk'd he when he turn'd to flight on that famed Picard field
 Bohemia's plume, and Genoa's bow, and Cæsar's eagle shield :
 So glared he when at Agincourt in wrath he turn'd to bay, 25
 And crush'd and torn beneath his claws the princely hunters lay.
 Ho ! strike the flag-staff deep, Sir Knight ; ho !
 scatter flowers, fair maids :
 Ho ! gunners, fire a loud salute : ho ! gallants, draw your blades ;

14 post, messenger

17 yeomen, stout followers

18 standard, great flag : her Grace, Queen Elizabeth

20 blazon, arms of England

23 field, Cressy

16 halberdiers, guards with axes

22 lilies, old arms of France

28 salute, volley : blades, swords

Thou sun, shine on her joyously—ye breezes waft her wide ;
Our glorious SEMPER EADEM—the banner of our pride.
The freshening breeze of eve unfurl'd that ban-
ner's massive fold,
The parting gleam of sunshine kiss'd that haughty
scroll of gold ;
Night sank upon the dusky beach, and on the purple sea,—
Such night in England ne'er had been, nor e'er again shall be !
From Eddystone to Berwick bounds, from Lynn to Milford Bay, 35
That time of slumber was as bright and busy as the day ;
For swift to east and swift to west the ghastly war-flame spread ;
High on Saint Michael's Mount it shone—it shone on Beachy Head.
Far on the deep the Spaniard saw, along each southern shire,
Cape beyond cape, in endless range, those twinkling points of fire ; 40
The fisher left his skiff to rock on Tamar's glittering waves,
The rugged miners pour'd to war from Mendip's sunless caves.
O'er Longleat's towers, o'er Cranbourne's oaks, the fiery herald flew ;
He roused the shepherds of Stonehenge, the rangers of Beaulieu.
Right sharp and quick the bells all night rang out from Bristol town, 45
And ere the day three hundred horse had met on Clifton down ;

The sentinel on Whitehall-gate look'd forth into the night,
And saw o'erhanging Richmond Hill, the streak of blood-red light.
Then bugle's note and cannon's roar the death-like silence broke,
And with one start, and with one cry, the royal city woke. 50
At once on all her stately gates arose the answering fires ;
At once the wild alarum clash'd from all her reeling spires ;
From all the batteries of the Tower peal'd loud the voice of fear ;
And all the thousand masts of Thames sent back
a louder cheer :
And from the furthest wards was heard the rush of hurrying feet, 55
And the broad streams of pikes and flags rush'd down each roaring street :
And broader still became the blaze, and louder
still the din,
As fast from every village round the horse came spurring in :
And eastward straight, from wild Blackheath, the warlike errand went,
And roused in many an ancient hall the gallant squires of Kent. 60
Southward, from Surrey's pleasant hills flew those bright couriers forth ;
High on bleak Hampstead's swarthy moor they started for the North ;
And on, and on, without a pause, untired they bounded still,

50 city, London 52 reeling, trembling under the sound
55 wards, divisions of the city 56 pikes, spears 58 horse, soldiers
59 errand, the beacon-fires to rouse England : so
61 couriers 62 swarthy, dark 63 paus ; stay

All night from tower to tower they sprang ; they sprang from hill to hill :
 Till the proud Peak unfurl'd the flag o'er Darwin's rocky dales, 65
 Till like volcanoes flared to Heaven the stormy hills of Wales ;
 Till twelve fair counties saw the blaze on Malvern's lonely height,
 Till stream'd in crimson on the wind the Wrekin's crest of light,
 Till broad and fierce the star came forth on Ely's stately fane,
 And tower and hamlet rose in arms o'er all the boundless plain ; 70
 Till Belvoir's lordly terraces the sign to Lincoln sent,
 And Lincoln sped the message on o'er the wide vale of Trent ;
 Till Skiddaw saw the fire that burn'd on Gaunt's embattled pile,
 And the red glare on Skiddaw roused the burghers of Carlisle.

HOHENLINDEN

ON Linden, when the sun was low,
 All bloodless lay the untrodden snow ;
 And dark as winter was the flow
 Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

But Linden saw another sight, 5
 When the drum beat at dead of night
 Commanding fires of death to light
 The darkness of her scenery.

69 fane, cathedral

72 sped, sent quickly

74 burghers, citizens

By torch and trumpet fast array'd
Each horseman drew his battle-blade, 10
And furious every charger neigh'd
To join the dreadful revelry.

Then shook the hills with thunder riven ;
Then rush'd the steed, to battle driven ;
And louder than the bolts of Heaven 15
Far flash'd the red artillery.

But redder yet that light shall glow
On Linden's hills of stained snow ;
And bloodier yet the torrent flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly. 20

'Tis morn ; but scarce yon level sun
Can pierce the war-clouds, rolling dun,
Where furious Frank and fiery Hun
Shout in their sulphurous canopy.

The combat deepens. On, ye Brave 25
Who rush to glory, or the grave !
Wave, Munich, all thy banners wave,
And charge with all thy chivalry !

Few, few shall part, where many meet !
The snow shall be their winding-sheet, 30
And every turf beneath their feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulchre.

THE LAST CHARGE OF THE FRENCH AT WATERLOO

ON came the whirlwind—like the last
But fiercest sweep of tempest-blast—
On came the whirlwind—steel-gleams broke
Like lightning through the rolling smoke ;

9 array'd, dressed 11 charger, war-horse 15 than thunder
16 artillery, cannon 22 dun, gloomy
24 sulphurous canopy, overhanging smoke from guns
28 chivalry, horsemen 32 sepulchre, grave

The war was waked anew, 5
 Three hundred cannon-mouths roar'd loud,
 And from their throats, with flash and cloud,
 Their showers of iron threw.
 Beneath their fire, in full career,
 Rush'd on the ponderous cuirassier, 10
 The lancer couch'd his ruthless spear,
 And hurrying as to havoc near,
 The cohorts' eagles flew.
 In one dark torrent, broad and strong,
 The advancing onset roll'd along, 15
 Forth harbinger'd by fierce acclaim,
 That, from the shroud of smoke and flame,
 Peal'd wildly the imperial name !
 But on the British heart were lost
 The terrors of the charging host ; 20
 For not an eye the storm that view'd
 Changed its proud glance of fortitude ;
 Nor was one forward footstep stay'd,
 As dropp'd the dying and the dead.
 Fast as their ranks the thunders tear, 25
 Fast they renew'd each serried square ;
 And on the wounded and the slain
 Closed their diminish'd files again,
 Till from their line scarce spears' lengths three,
 Emerging from the smoke they see 30
 Helmet, and plume, and panoply, —
 Then waked their fire at once !
 Each musketeer's revolving knell,
 As fast, as regularly fell,
 As when they practise to display 35
 Their discipline on festal day.

10 cuirassier, heavily armed horseman

13 cohort, body of men

16 harbinger'd, preceded

17 shroud, covering

18 name, Napoleon Buonaparte

22 fortitude, bravery

26 serried, closely drawn

31 panoply, armour

33 firing in turn

Then down went helm and lance,
 Down were the eagle-banners sent,
 Down reeling steeds and riders went,
 Corslets were pierced, and pennons rent ; 40
 And to augment the fray,
 Wheel'd full against their staggering flanks,
 The English horsemen's foaming ranks
 Forced their resistless way.
 Then to the musket-knell succeeds 45
 The clash of swords—the neigh of steeds—
 As plies the smith his clanging trade,
 Against the cuirass rang the blade ;
 And while amid their close array
 The well-served cannon rent their way, 50
 And while amid their scatter'd band
 Raged the fierce rider's bloody brand,
 Recoil'd in common rout and fear
 Lancer and guard and cuirassier,
 Horsemen and foot,—a mingled host ! 55
 Their leaders fall'n,—their standards lost.

THE SOLDIER'S DREAM.

OUR bugles sang truce, for the night-cloud had lower'd,
 And the sentinel stars set their watch in the sky ;
 And thousands had sunk on the ground overpower'd,
 The weary to sleep, and the wounded to die.
 When reposing that night on my pallet of straw 5
 By the wolf-scaring faggot that guarded the slain,
 At the dead of the night a sweet Vision I saw ;
 And thrice ere the morning I dreamt it again.

38 the Eagle was borne by the French

40 corslet, body-armour

41 augment, increase

1 truce, peace for the time : lower'd, descended

5 pallet, couch

6 fire lighted to keep the wolves away

Methought from the battle-field's dreadful array

Far, far, I had roam'd on a desolate track : 10

'Twas Autumn,—and sunshine arose on the way

To the home of my fathers, that welcomed me back.

I flew to the pleasant fields traversed so oft

In life's morning march, when my bosom was young ;

I heard my own mountain-goats bleating aloft, 15

And knew the sweet strain that the corn-reapers sung.

Then pledged we the wine-cup, and fondly I swore

From my home and my weeping friends never to part ;

My little ones kiss'd me a thousand times o'er,

And my wife sobb'd aloud in her fulness of heart. 20

'Stay—stay with us!—rest!—thou art weary and worn !'—

And fain was their war-broken soldier to stay ;—

But sorrow return'd with the dawning of morn,

And the voice in my dreaming ear melted away.

BLIND BELISARIUS

HEAVEN'S gifts are unequal in this world awarded,

As the wise page of history to us has recorded ;

Since the learn'd, great, and good, of its frowns seldom scape any :—

Witness brave Belisarius, who begg'd for a half-penny :—

'Date obolum, Date obolum, Date obolum, Belisario,' 5

He whose fame from his valour and victories arose,
sir,

Of his country the shield, and the scourge of her foes, sir :

By his poor faithful dog, blind and aged, was led
With one foot in the grave, thus to beg for his bread.

When a young Roman knight, in the street passing by, 10

The veteran survey'd with a heart-rending sigh :

His purse in his helmet he dropp'd with a tear,
While the soldier's sad tale thus attracted his ear.

' I have fought, I have bled, I have conquer'd for Rome ;

' I have crown'd her with laurels, which for ages shall bloom ; 15

I've enrich'd her with wealth, swell'd her pride and her power :

' I espoused her for life,—and disgrace is my dower !

' Yet blood I ne'er wantonly wasted at random,

' Losing thousands their lives by a nil desperandum :

' But each conquest I gain'd, I made friend and foe know 20

THE FAIRY LIFE

I

WHERE the bee sucks, there suck I :
 In a cowslip's bell I lie ;
 There I couch, when owls do cry :
 On the bat's back I do fly
 After summer merrily. 5
 Merrily, merrily, shall I live now,
 Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.

II

COME unto these yellow sands,
 And then take hands :
 Courtsied when you have and kiss'd
 The wild waves whist,

31 to die

34 inured, accustomed immured, built up

35 crust, his body :

Foot it featly here and there ; 5
And, sweet sprites, the burthen bear.

Hark, hark !

Bow-wow.

The watch-dog's bark :

Bow-wow. 10

Hark, hark ! I hear

The strain of strutting chancleer

Cry, Cock-a-diddle-dow !

W. Shakespeare

THE FAIRIES

UP the airy mountain,

Down the rushy glen,

We daren't go a-hunting

For fear of little men ;

Wee folk, good folk, 5

Trooping all together;

Green jacket, red cap.

And white owl's feather !

Down along the rocky shore

Some make their home : 10

They live on crispy pancakes

Of yellow tide-foam ;

Some in the reeds

Of the black mountain lake,

With frogs for their watch-dogs, 15

All night awake.

High on the hill-top

The old King sits ;

He is now so old and gray,

He's nigh lost his wits.

With a bridge of white mist

Columbkil he crosses,

- On his stately journeys
From Slieveleague to Rosses :—
Or going up with music 25
On cold starry nights,
To sup with the queen
Of the gay Northern Lights.
- They stole little Bridget
For seven years long ; 30
When she came down again,
Her friends were all gone.
- They took her lightly back,
Between the night and morrow ;
They thought that she was fast asleep, 35
But she was dead with sorrow.
They have kept her ever since
Deep within the lakes,
On a bed of flag-leaves,
Watching till she wakes. 40
- By the craggy hill-side,
Through the mosses bare,
They have planted thorn-trees
For pleasure here and there.
Is any man so daring 45
As dig them up in spite,
He shall find their sharpest thorns
In his bed at night.
- Up the airy mountain,
Down the rushy glen, 50
We daren't go a-hunting
For fear of little men ;
Wee folk, good folk,
Trooping all together ;
Green jacket, red cap, 55
And white owl's feather !

THE WIFE OF USHER'S WELL

THERE lived a wife at Usher's Well,
And a wealthy wife was she :
She had three stout and stalwart sons,
And sent them o'er the sea.

They had not been a week from her, 5
A week but barely ane,
When word came to the carline wife
That her three sons were gane.

They had not been a week from her,
A week but barely three, 10
When word came to the carline wife
That her sons she'd never see.

'I wish the wind may never cease,
'Nor fishes in the flood,
'Till my three sons come hame to me, 15
'In earthly flesh and blood !'

It fell about the Martinmas,
When nights are lang and mirk,
The carline wife's three sons came home,
And their hats were of the birk. 20

It neither grew in syke nor ditch,
Nor yet in ony sheugh ;
But at the gates of Paradise
That birk grew fair eneugh.

'Blow up the fire, my maidens ! 25
'Bring water from the well !
'For all my house shall feast this night,
'Since my three sons are well !'

7 carline, old peasant-woman

20 birk, birch

21 syke, marsh

18 mirk, murky

22 sheugh, trench

And she has made to them a bed,
 She's made it large and wide ; 30
 And she's ta'en her mantle her about ;
 Sat down at the bed-side.

Up then crew the red, red cock,
 And up and crew the gray :
 The eldest to the youngest said, 35
 ' 'Tis time we were away !

' The cock doth crawl, the day doth daw,
 ' The channerin' worm doth chide :
 ' If we be miss'd out of our place,
 ' A sore pain we must bide. 40

' Fare ye well, my mother dear !
 ' Farewell to barn and byre !
 ' And fare ye well, the bonny lass,
 ' That kindles my mother's fire !'

ALICE BRAND

I

MERRY it is in the good greenwood,
 When the mavis and merle are singing,
 When the deer sweeps by, and the hounds are in cry,
 And the hunter's horn is ringing.

' O Alice Brand, my native land 5
 ' Is lost for love of you ;
 ' And we must hold by wood and wold,
 ' As outlaws wont to do !

37 daw, dawn 38 channerin', scolding ; probably here, impatient
 42 byre, cattle-house 2 mavis, thrush : merle, blackbird
 7 hold, live 8 outlaws, persons driven into wild places

' O Alice, 'twas all for thy locks so bright,
' And 'twas all for thine eyes so blue, 10
' That on the night of our luckless flight,
' Thy brother bold I slew.

' Now must I teach to hew the beech,
' The hand that held the glaive,
' For leaves to spread our lowly bed, 15
' And stakes to fence our cave.

' And for vest of pall, thy fingers small,
' That wont on harp to stray,
' A cloak must shear from the slaughter'd deer,
' To keep the cold away.'— 20

—' O Richard ! if my brother died,
' 'Twas but a fatal chance :
' For darkling was the battle tried,
' And fortune sped the lance.

' If pall and vair no more I wear, 25
' Nor thou the crimson sheen,
' As warm, we'll say, is the russet gray ;
' As gay the forest-green.

' And, Richard, if our lot be hard,
' And lost thy native land, 30
' Still Alice has her own Richard,
' And he his Alice Brand.'

II

'Tis merry, 'tis merry, in good greenwood,
So blithe Lady Alice is singing ;
On the beech's pride, and oak's brown side,
Lord Richard's axe is ringing.

14 glaive, broad-sword

16 pall, fine cloth

24 sped, directed

25 vair, fur

35 the lofty beech

Up spoke the moody Elfin King,
 Who wonn'd within the hill,—
 Like wind in the porch of a ruin'd church,
 His voice was ghostly shrill. 40

'Why sounds yon stroke on beech and oak,
 'Our moonlight circle's screen ?
 'Or who comes here to chase the deer,
 'Beloved of our Elfin Queen ?
 'Or who may dare on wold to wear 45
 'The fairies' fatal green ?

'Up, Urgan, up ! to yon mortal hie,
 'For thou wert christen'd man :
 'For cross or sign thou wilt not fly,
 'For mutter'd word or ban. 50

'Lay on him the curse of the wither'd heart,
 'The curse of the sleepless eye ;
 'Till he wish and pray that his life would part,
 'Nor yet find leave to die !'

III

'Tis merry, 'tis merry, in good greenwood, 55
 Though the birds have still'd their singing ;
 The evening blaze doth Alice raise,
 And Richard is fagots bringing.

Up Urgan starts, that hideous dwarf,
 Before Lord Richard stands, 60
 And as he cross'd and bless'd himself,
 'I fear not sign,' quoth the grisly elf,
 'That is made with bloody hands.'

But out then spoke she, Alice Brand,
 That woman void of fear,— 65
 'And if there's blood upon his hand,
 'Tis but the blood of deer.'

—‘ Now loud thou liest, thou bold of mood !

‘ It cleaves unto his hand,

‘ The stain of thine own kindly blood, 70

‘ The blood of Ethert Brand.’

Then forward stepp’d she, Alice Brand,

And made the holy sign,—

‘ And if there’s blood on Richard’s hand,

‘ A spotless hand is mine. 75

‘ And I conjure thee, Demon elf,

‘ By Him whom Demons fear,

‘ To show us whence thou art thyself,

‘ And what thine errand here ?’

IV

—‘ ’Tis merry, ’tis merry, in Fairy-land, 80

‘ When fairy birds are singing,

‘ When the court doth ride by their monarch’s side,

‘ With bit and bridle ringing :

‘ And gaily shines the Fairy-land—

‘ But all is glistening show, 85

‘ Like the idle gleam that December’s beam

‘ Can dart on ice and snow.

‘ And fading, like that varied gleam,

‘ Is our inconstant shape,

‘ Who now like knight and lady seem, 90

‘ And now like dwarf and ape.

‘ It was between the night and day,

‘ When the Fairy King has power,

‘ That I sunk down in a sinful fray,

‘ And ’twixt life and death, was snatch’d away 95

‘ To the joyless Elfin bower.

' But wist I of a woman bold,
 ' Who thrice my brow durst sign,
 ' I might regain my mortal mould,
 ' As fair a form as thine.' 100

She cross'd him once—she cross'd him twice—
 That lady was so brave ;
 The fouler grew his goblin hue,
 The darker grew the cave.

She cross'd him thrice, that lady bold ! 105
 —He rose beneath her hand
 The fairest knight on Scottish mould,
 Her brother, Ethert Brand !

—Merry it is in good greenwood,
 When the mavis and merle are singing ; 110
 But merrier were they in Dunfermline gray
 When all the bells were ringing.

KUBLA KHAN

A Vision in a Dream

IN Xanadu did Kubla Khan
 A stately pleasure-dome decree :
 Where Alph, the sacred river, ran Through caverns measureless to man
 Down to a sunless sea. 5
 So twice five miles of fertile ground
 With walls and towers were girdled round :
 And there were gardens bright with sinuous rills
 Where blossom'd many an incense-bearing tree ;
 And here were forests ancient as the hills, 10
 Enfolding sunny spots of greenery.

But oh ! that deep romantic chasm which slanted
 Down the green hill athwart a cedarn cover !
 A savage place ! as holy and enchanted
 As e'er beneath a waning moon was haunted 15
 By woman wailing for her demon-lover !
 And from this chasm, with ceaseless turmoil seething,
 As if this earth in fast thick pants were breathing,
 A mighty fountain momentarily was forced :
 Amid whose swift half-intermitted burst 20
 Huge fragments vaulted like rebounding hail,
 Or chaffy grain beneath the thresher's flail ;
 And 'mid these dancing rocks at once and ever
 It flung up momentarily the sacred river.
 Five miles meandering with a mazy motion 25
 Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
 Then reach'd the caverns measureless to man,
 And sank in tumult to a lifeless ocean :
 And 'mid this tumult Kubla heard from far
 Ancestral voices prophesying war ! 30

The shadow of the dome of pleasure
 Floated midway on the waves ;
 Where was heard the mingled measure
 From the fountain and the caves.
 It was a miracle of rare device, 35
 A sunny pleasure-dome with caves of ice ;
 A damsel with a dulcimer
 In a vision once I saw :
 It was an Abyssinian maid,
 And on her dulcimer she play'd, 40
 Singing of Mount Abora !
 Could I revive within me
 Her symphony and song,

12 chasm, sharp hollow

13 cedarn, of cedars

20 intermitted, stopping

30 voices of his forefathers

37 dulcimer, guitar

19 momently, every moment

25 meandering, winding

33 measure, song

43 symphony, accompaniment

To such a deep delight 'twould win me
 That with music loud and long, 45
 I would build that dome in air,
 That sunny dome ! Those caves of ice !
 And all who heard should see them there,
 And all should cry Beware ! Beware !
 His flashing eyes, his floating hair ! 50
 Weave a circle round him thrice,
 And close your eyes with holy dread,
 For he on honey-dew hath fed,
 And drunk the milk of Paradise !

S. T. Coleridge

THE ECHOING GREEN

THE sun does arise
 And make happy the skies ;
 The merry bells ring
 To welcome the spring ;
 The skylark and thrush, 5
 The birds of the bush,
 Sing louder around
 To the bells' cheerful sound ;
 While our sports shall be seen
 On the echoing green. 10

Old John, with white hair,
 Does laugh away care,
 Sitting under the oak,
 Among the old folk.
 They laugh at our play, 15
 And soon they all say,
 ' Such, such were the joys
 ' When we all—girls and boys—
 ' In our youth-time were seen
 ' On the echoing green.' 20

Till the little ones, weary,
 No more can be merry ;
 The sun does descend,
 And our sports have an end.
 Round the laps of their mothers 25
 Many sisters and brothers,
 Like birds in their nest,
 Are ready for rest,
 And sport no more seen
 On the darkening green. 30

A CRADLE SONG

SLEEP, sleep, beauty bright,
 Dreaming in the joys of night ;
 Sleep, sleep ; in thy sleep
 Little sorrows sit and weep.
 Sweet babe, in thy face 5
 Soft desires I can trace,
 Secret joys and secret smiles,
 Little pretty infant wiles.
 As thy softest limbs I feel,
 Smiles as of the morning steal 10
 O'er thy cheek, and o'er thy breast
 Where thy little heart doth rest.
 Oh the cunning wiles that creep
 In thy little heart asleep !
 When thy little heart doth wake, 15
 Then the dreadful light shall break.

THE ORPHAN CHILDREN

I REACH'D the village on the plain,
Just when the setting sun's last ray
Shone blazing on the golden vane
Of the old church across the way.

Across the way alone I sped, 5
And climb'd the stile, and sat me there,
To think in silence on the dead
Who in the churchyard sleeping were.

There many a long, low grave I view'd
Where toil and want in quiet lie ; 10
And costly slabs amongst them stood
That bore the names of rich and high.

One new made mound I saw close by,
O'er which the grasses hardly crept,
Where, looking forth with listless eye, 15
Two ragged children sat and wept.

A piece of bread between them lay,
Which neither seem'd as it could take ;
And yet so worn and white were they
With want, it made my bosom ache. 20

I look'd a while, and said at last,
' Why in such sorrow sit you here ?
' And why the food you leave and waste
' Which your own hunger well might cheer ?'

The boy rose instant to his feet, 25
And said with gentle, eager haste,
' Lady, we've not enough to eat :
' O if we had, we should not waste !

' But sister Mary's naughty grown.
' And will not eat, whate'er I say ; 30
' Though sure I am the bread's her own,
' For she has tasted none to-day !'

- ' But when we reach'd the sea, and found 65
 ' 'Twas one great flood before us spread,
 ' We thought that father must be drown'd,
 ' And cried, and wish'd we too were dead.
 ' So we came back to mother's grave,
 ' And only long with her to be : 70
 ' For Goody, when this bread she gave,
 ' Said father died beyond the sea.
 ' So, since no parent we have here,
 ' We'll go and search for God around :—
 ' Pray, Lady, can you tell us where 75
 ' That God, our Father, may be found ?
 ' He lives in heaven, mother said :
 ' And Goody says that mother 's there :
 ' But though we've walk'd, and search'd, and pray'd,
 ' We cannot find them anywhere !' 80
 I clasp'd the prattlers in my arms,
 I cried, ' Come, both, and live with me !
 ' I'll clothe and feed you, safe from harms —
 ' Your second mother I will be.
 ' Till you to your own mother's side 85
 ' He in his own good time may call,
 ' With Him for ever to abide
 ' Who is the Father of us all !'

HELVELLYN

I CLIMB'D the dark brow of the mighty Helvellyn, Lakes and mountains beneath me gleam'd misty and wide ;
 All was still, save by fits, when the eagle was yelling,
 And starting around me the echoes replied.
 On the right, Striden-edge round the Red-tarn was bending, 5
 And Catchedicam its left verge was defending,
 One huge nameless rock in the front was ascending,
 When I mark'd the sad spot where the wanderer had died.

Dark green was that spot 'mid the brown mountain heather,
 Where the Pilgrim of Nature lay stretch'd in decay, 10

33 meare, mare

1 brow, mountain-side

6 verge, edge: defending, sheltering

10 Pilgrim, wanderer who admired the natural landscape

35 feärèns, fairings

3 by fits, now and then

Like the corpse of an outcast abandon'd to weather
 Till the mountain-winds wasted the tenantless clay.
 Nor yet quite deserted, though lonely extended,
 For, faithful in death, his mute favourite attended,
 The much-loved remains of her master defended, 15
 And chased the hill-fox and the raven away.

How long didst thou think that his silence was slumber?

When the wind waved his garment, how oft didst thou start?

How many long days and long weeks didst thou number,

Ere he faded before thee, the friend of thy heart? 20

And, oh! was it meet, that—no requiem read o'er him—

No mother to weep, and no friend to deplore him,
 And thou, little guardian, alone stretch'd before him—

Unhonour'd the Pilgrim from life should depart?

When a Prince to the fate of the Peasant has yielded, 25

The tapestry waves dark round the dim-lighted hall;

With scutcheons of silver the coffin is shielded,

And pages stand mute by the canopied pall:

Through the courts, at deep midnight, the torches are gleaming;

In the proudly-arch'd chapel the banners are beaming; 30

Far adown the long aisle sacred music is streaming,
 Lamenting a Chief of the People should fall.

12 tenantless clay, body without soul 13 extended, stretched out

But meeter for thee, gentle lover of nature,
 To lay down thy head like the meek mountain lamb,
 When, wilder'd, he drops from some cliff huge in stature, 35
 And draws his last sob by the side of his dam.
 And more stately thy couch by this desert lake lying,
 Thy obsequies sung by the gray plover flying,
 With one faithful friend but to witness thy dying,
 In the arms of Helvellyn and Catchedicam. 40

A REVERIE

WHEN, musing on companions gone,
 We doubly feel ourselves alone,
 Something, my Friend, we yet may gain ;
 'There is a pleasure in this pain :
 It soothes the love of lonely rest, 5
 Deep in each gentler heart impress'd.
 'Tis silent amid worldly toils,
 And stifled soon by mental broils ;
 But, in a bosom thus prepared,
 Its still small voice is often heard, 10
 Whispering a mingled sentiment,
 'Twixt resignation and content.
 Oft in my mind such thoughts awake,
 By lone Saint Mary's silent lake ;
 Thou know'st it well,—nor fen, nor sedge, 15
 Pollute the pure lake's crystal edge ;
 Abrupt and sheer, the mountains sink
 At once upon the level brink ;
 And just a trace of silver sand
 Marks where the water meets the land. 20

33 meeter, fitter 38 obsequies, funeral service 40 surrounded by 1 musings, thinking 6 impressed, stamped 8 by troubles of the mind 16 pollute, spoil 17 going straight up

Far in the mirror, bright and blue,
 Each hill's huge outline you may view ;
 Shaggy with heath, but lonely bare,
 Nor tree, nor bush, nor brake, is there,
 Save where, of land, yon slender line 25
 Bears thwart the lake the scatter'd pine.
 Yet even this nakedness has power,
 And aids the feeling of the hour :
 Nor thicket, dell, nor copse you spy,
 Where living thing conceal'd might lie ; 30
 Nor point, retiring, hides a dell,
 Where swain, or woodman lone, might dwell ;
 There's nothing left to fancy's guess,
 You see that all is loneliness :
 And silence aids—though the steep hills 35
 Send to the lake a thousand rills ;
 In summer-tide, so soft they weep,
 The sound but lulls the ear asleep ;
 Your horse's hoof-tread sounds too rude,
 So stilly is the solitude. 40

SUCH IS LIFE

LIKE to the falling of a star,
 Or as the flights of eagles are,
 Or like the fresh Spring's gaudy hue,
 Or silver drops of morning dew ;
 Or like a wind that chafes the flood, 5
 Or bubbles which on water stood ;—
 E'en such is man, whose borrow'd light
 Is straight call'd in and paid to-night.
 The wind blows out, the bubble dies,
 The Spring entomb'd in Autumn lies ; 10
 The dew dries up, the star is shot,
 The flight is past ;—and Man forgot.

A LESSON

THERE is a flower, the Lesser Celandine,
 That shrinks like many more from cold and rain,
 And the first moment that the sun may shine,
 Bright as the sun himself, 'tis out again !

When hailstones have been falling, swarm on swarm, 5
 Or blasts the green field and the trees distrest,
 Oft have I seen it muffled up from harm
 In close self-shelter, like a thing at rest.

But lately, one rough day, this flower I past,
 And recognized it, though an alter'd form, 10
 Now standing forth an offering to the blast,
 And buffeted at will by rain and storm.

I stopp'd and said, with inly-mutter'd voice,
 'It doth not love the shower, nor seek the cold ;
 'This neither is its courage nor its choice, 15
 'But its necessity in being old.

'The sunshine may not cheer it, nor the dew ;
 'It cannot help itself in its decay ;
 'Stiff in its members, wither'd, changed of hue,'
 And, in my spleen, I smiled that it was gray. 20

To be a prodigal's favourite—then, worse truth,
 A miser's pensioner—behold our lot !
 O Man ! that from thy fair and shining youth
 Age might but take the things Youth needed not !

W. Wordsworth

TRUE GROWTH

IT is not growing like a tree
 In bulk, doth make Man better be ;
 Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
 To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and sere :
 A lily of a day 5
 Is fairer far in May,
 Although it fall and die that night—
 It was the plant and flower of Light !
 In small proportions we just beauties see ;
 And in short measures life may perfect be. 10

FLOWERS WITHOUT FRUIT

PRUNE thou thy words ; the thoughts control
 That o'er thee swell and throng :—
 They will condense within thy soul,
 And change to purpose strong.

But he who lets his feelings run 5
 In soft luxurious flow,
 Shrinks when hard service must be done,
 And faints at every woe.

Faith's meanest deed more favour bears,
 Where hearts and wills are weigh'd, 10
 Than brightest transports, choicest prayers,
 Which bloom their hour, and fade.

J. H. Newman

CONTENTMENT

MY mind to me a kingdom is ;
 Such perfect joy therein I find,
 As far exceeds all earthly bliss
 That world affords, or grows by kind :
 Though much I want what most men have, 5
 Yet doth my mind forbid me crave.

Content I live—this is my stay ;
 I seek no more than may suffice :
 I press to bear no haughty sway ;
 Look—what I lack, my mind supplies ! 10
 Lo ! thus I triumph like a king,
 Content with that my mind doth bring.

3 condense, grow close and strong

4 by kind, naturally

6 crave, desire

7 stay, support

8 suffice, be enough

9 press, strive

I see how plenty surfeits oft,
 And hasty climbers soonest fall ;
 I see how those that sit aloft 15
 Mishap doth threaten most of all ;
 These get with toil, and keep with fear :
 Such cares my mind could never bear.
 I laugh not at another's loss ;
 I grudge not at another's gain ; 20
 No worldly wave my mind can toss ;
 I brook that is another's pain.
 I fear no foe : I scorn no friend :
 I dread no death : I fear no end.
 Some have too much, yet still they crave ; 25
 I little have, yet seek no more :
 They are but poor, though much they have,
 And I am rich, with little store.
 They poor, I rich : they beg, I give :
 They lack, I lend : they pine, I live. 30
 I wish but what I have at will :
 I wander not to seek for more :
 I like the plain ; I climb no hill :
 In greatest storm I sit on shore,
 And laugh at those that toil in vain, 35
 To get what must be lost again.
 —This is my choice ; for why?—I find
 No wealth is like a quiet mind.

Sir E. Dyer

THE SEARCH FOR PEACE

SWEET Peace, where dost thou dwell? I humbly crave,

Let me once know.

I sought thee in a secret cave,
 And ask'd, if Peace were there ?

13 surfeits, sickens
 31 at will, at command

22 brook that, bear easily what
 1 crave, beg to know

A hollow wind did seem to answer, 'No :—
'Go seek elsewhere.' 5

I did ; and going did a rainbow note :
Surely, thought I,
This is the lace of Peace's coat :
I will search out the matter. 10
But while I look'd, the clouds immediately
Did break and scatter.

Then went I to a garden, and did spy
A gallant flower,
The Crown Imperial : Sure, said I, 15
Peace at the root must dwell.
But when I digg'd, I saw a worm devour
What show'd so well.

At length I met a reverend good old man :
Whom when for Peace 20
I did demand, he thus began :
'There was a Prince of old
'At Salem dwelt, who lived with good increase
'Of flock and fold.

'He sweetly lived ; yet sweetness did not save 25
'His life from foes.
'But after death, out of his grave
'There sprang twelve stalks of wheat :
'Which many wondering at, got some of those
'To plant and set. 30

'It prosper'd strangely, and did soon disperse
'Through all the earth :
'For they that taste it do rehearse,
'That virtue lies therein ;
'A secret virtue, bringing peace and mirth 35
'By flight of sin.

Take of this grain, which in my garden grows,
 ' And grows for you ;
 ' Make bread of it :—and that repose
 ' And peace, which everywhere 40
 With so much earnestness you do pursue,
 ' Is only there.'

G. Herbert

THE KITTEN AND FALLING LEAVES.

THAT way look, my Infant, lo !
 What a pretty baby-show !
 See the Kitten on the wall,
 Sporting with the leaves that fall,
 Wither'd leaves—one—two—and three— 5
 From the lofty elder-tree !
 Through the calm and frosty air
 Of this morning bright and fair,
 Eddying round and round they sink
 Softly, slowly : one might think, 10
 From the motions that are made,
 Every little leaf convey'd
 Sylph or Faery hither tending,—
 To this lower world descending,
 Each invisible and mute, 15
 In his wavering parachute.
 —But the Kitten, how she starts,
 Crouches, stretches, paws, and darts !
 First at one, and then its fellow
 Just as light and just as yellow ; 20
 There are many now—now one—
 Now they stop, and there are none :
 What intenseness of desire
 In her upward eye of fire !

9 eddying, turning

13 Sylph, learned name for fairy

16 parachute, machine to float slowly down in the air

23 intenseness, strength

With a tiger-leap half way 25
 Now she meets the coming prey,
 Lets it go as fast, and then
 Has it in her power again :
 Now she works with three or four,
 Like an Indian conjuror ; 30
 Quick as he in feats of art,
 Far beyond in joy of heart.
 Were her antics play'd in th' eye
 Of a thousand standers-by,
 Clapping hands with shout and stare, 35
 What would little Tabby care
 For the plaudits of the crowd ?
 Over happy to be proud,
 Over wealthy in the treasure
 Of her own exceeding pleasure ! 40
 'Tis a pretty baby-treat ;
 Nor, I deem, for me unmeet ;
 Here, for neither Babe nor me,
 Other play-mate can I see.
 Of the countless living things, 45
 That with stir of feet and wings
 (In the sun or under shade,
 Upon bough or grassy blade)
 And with busy revellings,
 Chirp and song, and murmurings, 50
 Made this orchard's narrow space
 And this vale so blithe a place,—
 Multitudes are swept away
 Never more to breathe the day :
 Some are sleeping : some in bands 55
 Travell'd into distant lands ;
 Others slunk to moor and wood,
 Far from human neighbourhood ;
 And, among the Kinds that keep
 With us closer fellowship, 60

With us openly abide,
All have laid their mirth aside.

Where is he that giddy Sprite,
Blue-cap, with his colours bright,
Who was blest as bird could be, 65
Feeding in the apple-tree ;
Made such wanton spoil and rout,
Turning blossoms inside out ;
Hung—head pointing towards the ground—
Flutter'd, perch'd, into a round 70
Bound himself, and then unbound ;
Lithest, gaudiest Harlequin !
Prettiest Tumbler ever seen !
Light of heart and light of limb ;
What is now become of Him ? 75
Lambs, that through the mountains went
Frisking, bleating merriment,
When the year was in its prime,
They are sober'd by this time.
If you look to vale or hill, 80
If you listen, all is still,
Save a little neighbouring rill,
That from out the rocky ground
Strikes a solitary sound.
Vainly glitter hill and plain, 85
And the air is calm in vain ;
Vainly Morning spreads the lure
Of a sky serene and pure ;
Creature none can she decoy
Into open sign of joy : 90
Is it that they have a fear
Of the dreary season near ?
Or that other pleasures be
Sweeter e'en than gaiety ?
Yet, whate'er enjoyments dwell 95

In the impenetrable cell
 Of the silent heart which Nature
 Furnishes to every creature ;
 Whatsoe'er we feel and know
 Too sedate for outward show, 100
 Such a light of gladness breaks,
 Pretty Kitten ! from thy freaks, -
 Spreads with such a living grace
 O'er my little Dora's face ;
 Yes, the sight so stirs and charms 105
 Thee, Baby, laughing in my arms,
 That almost I could repine
 That your transports are not mine,
 That I do not wholly fare
 Even as ye do, thoughtless pair ! 110
 And I will have my careless season,
 Spite of melancholy reason ;
 Will walk through life in such a way
 That, when time brings on decay,
 Now and then I may possess 115
 Hours of perfect gladsomeness.
 —Pleased by any random toy ;
 By a kitten's busy joy,
 Or an infant's laughing eye
 Sharing in the ecstasy ; 120
 I would fare like that or this,
 Find my wisdom in my bliss ;
 Keep the sprightly soul awake ;
 And have faculties to take,
 Even from things by sorrow wrought, 125
 Matter for a jocund thought ;
 Spite of care, and spite of grief,
 To gambol with Life's falling Leaf.

A SONG OF PRAISE

To God, ye choir above, begin
 A hymn so loud and strong
 That all the universe may hear
 And join the grateful song.

Praise Him, thou sun, Who dwells unseen 5
 Amidst transcendent light,
 Where thy refulgent orb would seem
 A spot, as dark as night.

Thou silver moon, ye host of stars,
 The universal song 10
 Through the serene and silent night
 To listening worlds prolong.

Sing Him, ye distant worlds and suns,
 From whence no travelling ray
 Hath yet to us, through ages past, 15
 Had time to make its way.

Assist, ye raging storms, and bear
 On rapid wings His praise,
 From north to south, from east to west,
 Through heaven, and earth, and seas. 20

Exert your voice, ye furious fires
 That rend the watery cloud,
 And thunder to this nether world
 Your Maker's words aloud.

Ye works of God, that dwell unknown 25
 Beneath the rolling main ;
 Ye birds, that sing among the groves,
 And sweep the azure plain ;

1 choir, all Nature	6 transcendent, surpassingly bright
7 refulgent, shining	11 serene, clear
13 stars so distant that their light has not yet reached us
21 fires, lightnings	23 nether, lower 28 the sky

Ye stately hills, that rear your heads,
 And towering pierce the sky ; 30
 Ye clouds, that with an awful pace
 Majestic roll on high ;

Ye insects small, to which one leaf
 Within its narrow sides
 A vast extended world displays, 35
 And spacious realms provides ;

Ye race, still less than these, with which
 The stagnant water teems,
 To which one drop, however small,
 A boundless ocean seems ; 40

Whate'er ye are, where'er ye dwell,
 Ye creatures great or small,
 Adore the wisdom, praise the power,
 That made and governs all.

THE SONG OF DAVID

HE sang of God, the mighty source
 Of all things, the stupendous force
 On which all strength depends ;
 From whose right arm, beneath whose eyes,
 All period, power, and enterprize 5
 Commences, reigns, and ends.

The world, the clustering spheres he made,
 The glorious light, the soothing shade,
 Dale, champaign, grove, and hill :
 The multitudinous abyss, 10
 Where secresy remains in bliss,
 And wisdom hides her skill.

7 spheres, stars

9 champaign, level country

10 abyss, space

Tell them, I AM, Jehovah said
 To Moses : while Earth heard in dread,
 And, smitten to the heart, 15
 At once, above, beneath, around,
 All Nature, without voice, or sound,
 Replied, ' O Lord, THOU ART.'

C. Smart

THE TRAVELLER

How are thy servants blest, O Lord !
 How sure is their defence !
 Eternal wisdom is their guide,
 Their help, Omnipotence.

In foreign realms, and lands remote, 5
 Supported by Thy care,
 Through burning climes I pass'd unhurt,
 And breathed in tainted air.

Thy mercy sweeten'd every soil,
 Made every region please ; 10
 The hoary Alpine hills it warm'd,
 And smoothed the Tyrrhene seas.

Think, O my soul, devoutly think,
 How, with affrighted eyes,
 Thou saw'st the wide-extended deep 15
 In all its horrors rise.

Confusion dwelt in every face,
 And fear in every heart ;
 When waves on waves, and gulfs on gulfs,
 O'ercame the pilot's art. 20

17 No one knew what to do

Yet then from all my griefs, O Lord,
 Thy mercy set me free ;
 Whilst, in the confidence of prayer,
 My soul took hold on Thee.

For though in dreadful whirls we hung 25
 High on the broken wave,
 I knew Thou wert not slow to hear,
 Nor impotent to save.

—The storm was laid ; the winds retired,
 Obedient to Thy will ; 30
 The sea that roar'd at Thy command,
 At Thy command was still.

WRITTEN IN EARLY SPRING.

I HEARD a thousand blended notes
 While in a grove I sat reclined,
 In that sweet mood when pleasant thoughts
 Bring sad thoughts to the mind.

To her fair works did Nature link 5
 The human soul that through me ran ;
 And much it grieved my heart to think
 What Man has made of Man.

Through primrose tufts, in that sweet bower,
 The periwinkle trail'd its wreaths ; 10
 And 'tis my faith that every flower
 Enjoys the air it breathes.

28 impotent, unable

1 blended, mixed together

3 mood, humour

29 laid, stilled

2 reclined, resting

11 faith, belief

The birds around me hopp'd and play'd ;
 Their thoughts I cannot measure —
 But the least motion which they made 15
 It seem'd a thrill of pleasure.

The budding twigs spread out their fan
 To catch the breezy air ;
 And I must think, do all I can,
 That there was pleasure there. 20

If this belief from Heaven be sent,
 If such be Nature's holy plan,
 Have I not reason to lament
 What Man has made of Man?

THE RAINBOW

TRIUMPHAL arch, that fill'st the sky
 When storms prepare to part,
 I ask not proud Philosophy
 To teach me what thou art.

Still seem, as to my childhood's sight, 5
 A midway station given,
 For happy spirits to alight,
 Betwixt the earth and heaven.

Can all that optics teach, unfold
 Thy form to please me so, 10
 As when I dreamt of gems and gold
 Hid in thy radiant bow?

When science from creation's face
 Enchantment's veil withdraws,
 What lovely visions yield their place 15
 To cold material laws !

1 arch in remembrance of victory 2 part, clear off
 9 optics, laws of sight : unfold, explain
 14 enchantment, the poetry of youth 16 laws of matter

And yet, fair bow, no fabling dreams,
But words of the Most High,
Have told why first thy robe of beams
Was woven in the sky. 20

When o'er the green undeluged earth
Heaven's covenant thou didst shine,
How came the world's gray fathers forth
To watch thy sacred sign !

And when its yellow lustre smiled 25
O'er mountains yet untrod,
Each mother held aloft her child
To bless the bow of God.

The earth to thee her incense yields,
The lark thy welcome sings, 30
When, glittering in the freshen'd fields,
The snowy mushroom springs.

How glorious is thy girdle, cast
O'er mountain, tower, and town,
Or mirror'd in the ocean vast 35
A thousand fathoms down !

As fresh in yon horizon dark,
As young thy beauties seem,
As when the eagle from the ark
First sported in thy beam. 40

For, faithful to its sacred page,
Heaven still-rebuilds thy span ;
Nor lets the type grow pale with age
That first spoke peace to man.

TO THE CUCKOO.

HAIL, beauteous stranger of the grove !
 Thou messenger of spring !
 Now Heaven repairs thy rural seat,
 And woods thy welcome sing.

What time the daisy decks the green, 5
 Thy certain voice we hear ;
 Hast thou a star to guide thy path,
 Or mark the rolling year ?

Delightful visitant, with thee
 I hail the time of flowers, 10
 And hear the sound of music sweet
 From birds among the bowers.

The schoolboy wandering through the wood
 To pull the primrose gay,
 Starts the new voice of spring to hear, 15
 And imitates thy lay.

What time the pea puts on the bloom
 Thou fliest thy vocal vale,
 An annual guest in other lands,
 Another spring to hail. 20

Sweet bird ! thy bower is ever green,
 Thy sky is ever clear ;
 Thou hast no sorrow in thy song,
 No winter in thy year !

O could I fly, I'd fly with thee ! 25
 We'd make, with joyful wing,
 Our annual visit o'er the globe,
 Companions of the spring.

TO THE CUCKOO

O BLITHE new-comer ! I have heard,
 I hear thee and rejoice :
 O Cuckoo ! shall I call thee bird,
 Or but a wandering Voice ?

While I am lying on the grass 5
 Thy twofold shout I hear ;
 From hill to hill it seems to pass,
 At once far off and near.

Though babbling only to the vale
 Of sunshine and of flowers, 10
 Thou bringest unto me a tale
 Of visionary hours.

Thrice welcome, darling of the Spring !
 Even yet thou art to me
 No bird, but an invisible thing — 15
 A voice, a mystery ;

The same whom in my schoolboy days
 I listen'd to ; that Cry
 Which made me look a thousand ways
 In bush, and tree, and sky. 20

To seek thee did I often rove
 Through woods and on the green ;
 And thou wert still a hope, a love ;
 Still long'd for, never seen !

And I can listen to thee yet ; 25
 Can lie upon the plain
 And listen, till I do beget
 That golden time again.

27, 28 till, until I fancy myself young again

O blesséd bird ! the earth we pace
 Again appears to be
 An unsubstantial fairy place
 That is fit home for Thee !

TO A WATERFOWL

WHITHER, 'midst falling dew,
 While glow the heavens with the last steps of day,
 Far through their rosy depths, dost thou pursue
 Thy solitary way?

Vainly the fowler's eye
 Might mark thy distant flight to do thee wrong,
 As, darkly painted on the crimson sky,
 Thy figure floats along.

Seek'st thou the plashy brink
 Of weedy lake, or marge of river wide,
 Or where the rocking billows rise and sink
 On the chafed ocean side?

10

There is a Power whose care
 Teaches thy way along that pathless coast,—
 The desert and illimitable air,—
 Lone wandering, but not lost.

15

All day thy wings have fann'd,
 At that far height, the cold, thin atmosphere ;
 Yet stoop not, weary, to the welcome land,
 Though the dark night is near.

20

And soon that toil shall end ;
 Soon shalt thou find a summer home, and rest
 And scream among thy fellows ; reeds shall bend
 Soon o'er thy shelter'd nest.

Thou'rt gone—the abyss of heaven 25
Hath swallow'd up thy form—yet on my heart
Deeply hath sunk the lesson thou hast given,
And shall not soon depart.

He, who from zone to zone [30
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone,
Will lead my steps aright.

SIGNS OF EVENING

THE sun upon the lake is low,
The wild birds hush their song ;
The hills have evening's deepest glow,
Yet Leonard tarries long.
Now all whom varied toil and care
From home and love divide,
In the calm sunset may repair
Each to the loved one's side.

The noble dame on turret high,
Who waits her gallant knight, 10
Looks to the western beam to spy
The flash of armour bright.
The village maid, with hand on brow
The level ray to shade,
Upon the footpath watches now 15
For Colin's darkening plaid.

Now to their mates the wild swans row,
By day they swam apart ;
And to the thicket wanders slow
The hind beside the hart. 20

ARETHUSA

ARETHUSA arose
 From her couch of snows
 In the Acroceraunian mountains,—
 From cloud and from crag
 With many a jag, 5
 Shepherding her bright fountains.
 She leapt down the rocks
 With her rainbow locks
 Streaming among the streams ;—
 Her steps paved with green 10
 The downward ravine
 Which slopes to the western gleams :
 And gliding and springing,
 She went, ever singing,
 In murmurs as soft as sleep ; 15
 The Earth seem'd to love her,
 And Heaven smiled above her,
 As she linger'd towards the deep.

Then Alphéus bold,
 On his glacier cold, 20
 With his trident the mountains strook ;
 And open'd a chasm
 In the rocks ; with the spasm
 All Erymanthus shook.

Seen through the torrent's sweep,
As he follow'd the light
Of the fleet nymph's flight 35
To the brink of the Dorian deep.

' Oh, save me ! Oh, guide me !
 ' And bid the deep hide me,
 ' For he grasps me now by the hair !'
 The loud Ocean heard,
 To its blue depth stirr'd,
 And divided at her prayer ;
 And under the water
 The Earth's white daughter
 Fled like a sunny beam ;
 Behind her descended
 Her billows, unblended
 With the brackish Dorian stream :
 Like a gloomy stain
 On the emerald main
 Alphéus rush'd behind,—

 Of Cerberus and blackest Midnight born
 In Stygian cave forlorn
 'Mongst horrid shapes, and shrieks, and sights

 Find out some uncouth cell 5
 Where brooding Darkness spreads his jealous

 And the night-raven sings ;
 There under ebon shades, and low-brow'd rocks
 As ragged as thy locks,
 In dark Cimmerian desert ever dwell. 10

But come, thou Goddess fair and free,
 In heaven yclept Euphrosyné,
 And by men, heart-easing Mirth,
 Whom lovely Venus at a birth
 With two sister Graces more 15

 Or whether (as some sager sing)
 The frolic wind that breathes the spring
 Zephyr, with Aurora playing,

 In unreprovéd pleasures free ; 40

 And singing startle the dull night
 From his watch-tower in the skies,
 Till the dappled dawn doth rise ;
 Then to come, in spite of sorrow, 45
 And at my window bid good-morrow
 Through the sweetbriar, or the vine,
 Or the twisted eglantine :
 While the cock with lively din
 Scatters the rear of darkness thin, 50
 And to the stack, or the barn-door,
 Stoutly struts his dames before :
 Oft listening how the hounds and horn
 Cheerly rouse the slumbering morn :
 From the side of some hoar hill, 55
 Through the high wood echoing shrill.

 By hedge-row elms, on hillocks green,

Robed in flames and amber light ;
 The clouds in thousand liveries dight ;
 While the ploughman, near at hand,
 Whistles o'er the furrow'd land,
 And the milkmaid singeth blithe, 65
 And the mower whets his scythe,
 And every shepherd tells his tale
 Under the hawthorn in the dale.

Straight mine eye hath caught new pleasures
 Whilst the landscape round it measures ; 70
 Russet lawns, and fallows gray,
 Where the nibbling flocks do stray ;
 Mountains, on whose barren breast
 The labouring clouds do often rest ;
 Meadows trim with daisies pied, 75
 Shallow brooks, and rivers wide ;
 Towers and battlements it sees
 Bosom'd high in tufted trees,
 Where perhaps some Beauty lies,
 The Cynosure of neighbouring eyes. 80

Hard by, a cottage chimney smokes
 From betwixt two aged oaks,
 Where Corydon and Thyrsis, met,
 Are at their savoury dinner set
 Of herbs, and other country messes 85
 Which the neat-handed Phillis dresses ;
 And then in haste her bower she leaves
 With Thestylis to bind the sheaves ;
 Or, if the earlier season lead,
 To the tann'd haycock in the mead. 90

When the merry bells ring round,
 And the jocund rebecks sound
 To many a youth and many a maid, 95
 Dancing in the chequer'd shade ;
 And young and old come forth to play
 On a sun-shine holy-day,
 Till the live-long daylight fail :
 Then to the spicy nut-brown ale, 100
 With stories told of many a feat,
 How faery Mab the junkets eat ;
 She was pinch'd, and pull'd, she said ;
 And he, by friar's lantern led ;
 Tells how the drudging Goblin sweat 105
 To earn his cream-bowl duly set,
 When in one night, ere glimpse of morn,
 His shadowy flail hath thresh'd the corn
 That ten day-labourers could not end ;
 Then lies him down the lubber fiend, 110
 And, stretch'd out all the chimney's length,
 Basks at the fire his hairy strength ;
 And crop-full out of doors he flings,
 Ere the first cock his matin rings.

Thus done the tales, to bed they creep, 115
 By whispering winds soon lull'd asleep.

Tower'd cities please us then
 And the busy hum of men,
 Where throngs of knights and barons bold,
 In weeds of peace high triumphs hold, 120
 With store of ladies, whose bright eyes
 Rain influence, and judge the prize
 Of wit or arms, while both contend
 To win her grace, whom all commend.

And pomp, and feast, and revelry,
With mask, and antique pageantry ;
Such sights as youthful poets dream
On summer eves by haunted stream. 130
Then to the well-trod stage anon,
If Jonson's learned sock be on,
Or sweetest Shakspeare, Fancy's child,
Warble his native wood-notes wild.

And ever against eating cares 135
Lap me in soft Lydian airs
Married to immortal verse,
Such as the meeting soul may pierce
In notes, with many a winding bout
Of linked sweetness long drawn out ; 140
With wanton heed and giddy cunning,
The melting voice through mazes running,
Untwisting all the chains that tie
The hidden soul of harmony ;
That Orpheus' self may heave his head 145
From golden slumber, on a bed
Of heap'd Elysian flowers, and hear
Such strains as would have won the ear
Of Pluto, to have quite set free
His half-regain'd Eurydicé. 150

These delights if thou canst give,
Mirth, with thee I mean to live.

Or fill the fixed mind with all your toys !

Dwell in some idle brain, 5
 And fancies fond with gaudy shapes possess
 As thick and numberless
 As the gay motes that people the sunbeams,
 Or likest hovering dreams
 The fickle pensioners of Morpheus' train. 10
 But hail, thou goddess sage and holy,
 Hail, divinest Melancholy !
 Whose saintly visage is too bright
 To hit the sense of human sight,
 And therefore to our weaker view 15
 O'erlaid with black, staid Wisdom's hue ;
 Black, but such as in esteem
 Prince Memnon's sister might beseem,
 Or that starr'd Ethiop queen that strove
 To set her beauty's praise above 20
 The sea nymphs, and their powers offended :
 Yet thou art higher far descended :
 Thee bright-hair'd Vesta, long of yore,
 To solitary Saturn bore ;
 His daughter she ; in Saturn's reign 25
 Such mixture was not held a stain :
 Oft in glimmering bowers and glades
 He met her, and in secret shades
 Of woody Ida's inmost grove,
 While yet there was no fear of Jove. 30
 Come, pensive nun, devout and pure,
 Sober, steadfast, and demure,
 All in a robe of darkest grain.

 Forget thyself to marble, till,
 With a sad leaden downward cast,
 Thou fix them on the earth as fast :
 And join with thee, calm Peace, and Quiet ; 45
 Spare Fast, that oft with gods doth diet,
 And hears the Muses in a ring
 Aye round about Jove's altar sing :
 And add to these retired Leisure,
 That in trim gardens takes his pleasure :— 50
 But first, and chiefest, with thee bring Him that yon soars on golden wing,
 Guiding the fiery-wheeléd throne,
 The cherub Contemplation ;
 And the mute Silence hist along, 55

 In her sweetest, saddest plight,
 Smoothing the rugged brow of Night,
 While Cynthia checks her dragon yoke
 Gently o'er the accustom'd oak. 60

 Most musical, most melancholy !
 Thee, chauntress, oft, the woods among

 To behold the wandering Moon
 Riding near her highest noon,

Stooping through a fleecy cloud.

Oft, on a plat of rising ground
I hear the far-off curfeu sound
Over some wide-water'd shore, 75
Swinging slow with sullen roar :

Or, if the air will not permit,
Some still removéd place will fit,
Where glowing embers through the room
Teach light to counterfeit a gloom ; 80

Far from all resort of mirth,
Save the cricket on the hearth,
Or the bellman's drowsy charm
To bless the doors from nightly harm.

Or let my lamp at midnight hour 85
Be seen in some high lonely tower,
Where I may oft out-watch the Bear
With thrice-great Hermes, or unsphere

And made Hell grant what Love did seek
Or call up him that left half-told
The story of Cambuscan bold, 110

Of Camball, and of Algarsife,
And who had Canacé to wife
That own'd the virtuous ring and glass ;
And of the wondrous horse of brass

 And the waters murmuring,
 With such concert as they keep 145
 Entice the dewy-feather'd Sleep;
 And let some strange mysterious dream
 Wave at his wings in aery stream
 Of lively portraiture display'd,
 Softly on my eyelids laid : 150
 And, as I wake, sweet music breathe
 Above, about, or underneath,
 Sent by some spirit to mortals good,
 Or the unseen Genius of the wood.
 But let my due feet never fail 155
 To walk the studious cloister's pale,
 And love the high-embowéd roof,
 With antique pillars massy proof,
 And storied windows richly dight,
 Casting a dim religious light : 160

A HAPPY OLD AGE

HAPPY were he could finish forth his fate
In some unhaunted desert, where, obscure
From all society, from love and hate
Of worldly folk, there should he sleep secure ;
Then wake again, and yield God ever praise ; 5
Content with hip, with haws, and brambleberry ;
In contemplation passing still his days,
And change of holy thoughts to make him merry :
Who, when he dies, his tomb might be the bush
Where harmless robin resteth with the thrush : 10
—Happy were he !

A CRADLE SONG

WHAT does little birdie say
 In her nest at peep of day?
 Let me fly, says little birdie,
 Mother, let me fly away.
 Birdie, rest a little longer,
 Till the little wings are stronger.
 So she rests a little longer,
 Then she flies away

What does little baby say,
 In her bed at peep of day?
 Baby says, like little birdie,
 Let me rise and fly away.
 Baby, sleep a little longer,
 Till the little limbs are stronger.
 If she sleeps a little longer,
 Baby too shall fly away.

THE DYING SWAN

I

THE plain was grassy, wild and bare,
 Wide, wild, and open to the air,
 Which had built up everywhere
 An under-roof of doleful gray.
 With an inner voice the river ran,
 Adown it floated a dying swan,
 And loudly did lament.
 It was the middle of the day.
 Ever the weary wind went on,
 And took the reed-tops as it went.

II

Some blue peaks in the distance rose,
 And white against the cold-white sky,
 Shone out their crowning snows.
 One willow over the river wept,
 And shook the wave as the wind did sigh ; 15
 Above in the wind was the swallow,
 Chasing itself at its own wild will,
 And far thro' the marish green and still
 The tangled water-courses slept,
 Shot over with purple, and green, and yellow. 20

III

The wild swan's death-hymn took the soul
 Of that waste place with joy
 Hidden in sorrow : at first to the ear
 The warble was low, and full and clear ;
 And floating about the under-sky, 25
 Prevailing in weakness, the coronach stole
 Sometimes afar, and sometimes anear ;
 But anon her awful jubilant voice,
 With a music strange and manifold,
 Flow'd forth on a carol free and bold ; 30
 As when a mighty people rejoice
 With shawms, and with cymbals, and harps of gold,
 And the tumult of their acclaim is roll'd
 Thro' the open gates of the city afar,
 To the shepherd who watcheth the evening star. 35

 And the silvery marish-flowers that throng 40
 The desolate creeks and pools among,
 Were flooded over with eddying song.

THE BEGGAR MAID

HER arms across her breast she laid ;
 She was more fair than words can say :
 Bare-footed came the beggar maid
 Before the king Cophetua.
 In robe and crown the king stepped down, 5
 To meet and greet her on her way ;
 ' It is no wonder,' said the lords,
 ' She is more beautiful than day.'

As shines the moon in clouded skies,
 She in her poor attire was seen : 10
 One praised her ancles, one her eyes,
 One her dark hair and lovesome mien.
 So sweet a face, such angel grace,
 In all that land had never been :
 Cophetua swore a royal oath : 15
 ' This beggar maid shall be my queen !'

THE LORD OF BURLEIGH

IN her ear he whispers gaily,
 'If my heart by signs can tell,
 Maiden, I have watch'd thee daily,
 And I think thou lov'st me well.'
 She replies, in accents fainter, 5
 'There is none I love like thee.'
 He is but a landscape-painter,
 And a village maiden she.
 He to lips, that fondly falter,
 Presses his without reproof: 10
 Leads her to the village altar,
 And they leave her father's roof.
 'I can make no marriage present:
 Little can I give my wife.
 Love will make our cottage pleasant, 15
 And I love thee more than life.'
 They by parks and lodges going
 See the lordly castles stand:
 Summer woods, about them blowing,
 Made a murmur in the land. 20
 From deep thought himself he rouses,
 Says to her that loves him well,
 'Let us see these handsome houses
 Where the wealthy nobles dwell.'
 So she goes by him attended, 25
 Hears him lovingly converse,
 Sees whatever fair and splendid
 Lay betwixt his home and hers;
 Parks with oak and chestnut shady,
 Parks and order'd gardens great, 30
 Ancient homes of lord and lady,
 Built for pleasure and for state.

All he shows her makes him dearer :
 Evermore she seems to gaze
 On that cottage growing nearer, 35
 Where they twain will spend their days.
 O but she will love him truly !
 He shall have a cheerful home ;
 She will order all things duly,
 When beneath his roof they come. 40
 Thus her heart rejoices greatly,
 Till a gateway she discerns
 With armorial bearings stately,
 And beneath the gate she turns ;
 Sees a mansion more majestic 45
 Than all those she saw before :
 Many a gallant gay domestic
 Bows before him at the door.
 And they speak in gentle murmur,
 When they answer to his call, 50
 While he treads with footstep firmer,
 Leading on from hall to hall.
 And, while now she wonders blindly,
 Nor the meaning can divine,
 Proudly turns he round and kindly, 55
 ' All of this is mine and thine.'
 Here he lives in state and bounty,
 Lord of Burleigh, fair and free,
 Not a lord in all the county
 Is so great a lord as he. 60
 All at once the colour flushes
 Her sweet face from brow to chin :
 As it were with shame she blushes,
 And her spirit changed within.
 Then her countenance all over 65
 Pale again as death did prove :

36 twain, two43 armorial bearings, carved coat-of-arms47 domestic, (man) servant54 divine, make out

But he clasp'd her like a lover,
 And he cheer'd her soul with love.
 So she strove against her weakness,
 Tho' at times her spirit sank : 70
 Shaped her heart with woman's meekness
 To all duties of her rank :
 And a gentle consort made he,
 And her gentle mind was such
 That she grew a noble lady, 75
 And the people loved her much.
 But a trouble weigh'd upon her,
 And perplex'd her, night and morn,
 With the burthen of an honour
 Unto which she was not born. 80
 Faint she grew, and ever fainter,
 And she murmur'd, ' Oh, that he
 Were once more that landscape-painter,
 Which did win my heart from me !'
 So she droop'd and droop'd before him, 85
 Fading slowly from his side :
 Three fair children first she bore him,
 Then before her time she died.
 Weeping, weeping late and early,
 Walking up and pacing down, 90
 Deeply mourn'd the Lord of Burleigh,
 Burleigh-house by Stamford-town.
 And he came to look upon her,
 And he look'd at her and said,
 ' Bring the dress and put it on her, 95
 That she wore when she was wed.'
 Then her people, softly treading,
 Bore to earth her body, drest
 In the dress that she was wed in,
 That her spirit might have rest. 100

THE LADY OF SHALOTT

I

ON either side the river lie
 Long fields of barley and of rye,
 That clothe the wold and meet the sky ;
 And thro' the field the road runs by
 To many-tower'd Camelot ; 5
 And up and down the people go,
 Gazing where the lilies blow
 Round an island there below,
 The island of Shalott.

Willows whiten, aspens quiver, 10
 Little breezes dusk and shiver
 Thro' the wave that runs for ever
 By the island in the river
 Flowing down to Camelot.
 Four gray walls, and four gray towers, 15
 Overlook a space of flowers,
 And the silent isle imbowers
 The Lady of Shalott.

By the margin, willow-veil'd,
 Slide the heavy barges trail'd 20
 By slow horses ; and unhail'd
 The shallop flitteth silken-sail'd
 Skimming down to Camelot :
 But who hath seen her wave her hand ?
 Or at the casement seen her stand ? 25
 Or is she known in all the land,
 The Lady of Shalott ?

11 dusk and shiver, make the water dusky and bright by turns
 17 imbowers, forms a bower for 25 casement, window

Only reapers, reaping early
 In among the bearded barley,
 Hear a song that echoes cheerly 30
 From the river winding clearly,
 Down to tower'd Camelot :
 And by the moon the reaper weary,
 Piling sheaves in uplands airy,
 Listening, whispers "'Tis the fairy 35
 Lady of Shalott.'

II

THERE she weaves by night and day
 A magic web with colours gay.
 She has heard a whisper say,
 A curse is on her if she stay 40
 To look down to Camelot.
 She knows not what the curse may be,
 And so she weaveth steadily,
 And little other care hath she,
 The Lady of Shalott. 45

And moving thro' a mirror clear
 That hangs before her all the year,
 Shadows of the world appear.
 There she sees the highway near
 Winding down to Camelot : 50
 There the river eddy whirls,
 And there the surly village-churls,
 And the red cloaks of market girls,
 Pass onward from Shalott.

Sometimes a troop of damsels glad, 55
 An abbot on an ambling pad,
 Sometimes a curly shepherd-lad,
 Or long-hair'd page in crimson clad,

Goes by to tower'd Camelot ;
 And sometimes thro' the mirror blue 60
 The knights come riding two and two :
 She hath no loyal knight and true,
 The Lady of Shalott.

But in her web she still delights
 To weave the mirror's magic sights, 65
 For often thro' the silent nights
 A funeral, with plumes and lights
 And music, went to Camelot :
 Or when the moon was overhead,
 Came two young lovers lately wed ; 70
 ' I am half sick of shadows,' said
 The Lady of Shalott.

III

A BOW-SHOT from her bower-eaves,
 He rode between the barley-sheaves,
 The sun came dazzling thro' the leaves, 75
 And flamed upon the brazen greaves
 Of bold Sir Lancelot.

A red-cross knight for ever kneel'd
 To a lady in his shield,
 That sparkled on the yellow field, 80
 Beside remote Shalott.

The gemmy bridle glitter'd free,
 Like to some branch of stars we see
 Hung in the golden Galaxy.
 The bridle bells rang merrily 85
 As he rode down to Camelot :

And from his blazon'd baldric slung
A mighty silver bugle hung,
And as he rode his armour rung,
Beside remote Shalott. 90

All in the blue unclouded weather
Thick-jewell'd shone the saddle-leather,
The helmet and the helmet-feather
Burn'd like one burning flame together,
As he rode down to Camelot. 95
As often thro' the purple night,
Below the starry clusters bright,
Some bearded meteor, trailing light,
Moves over still Shalott.

His broad clear brow in sunlight glow'd ; 100
On burnish'd hooves his war-horse trode ;
From underneath his helmet flow'd
His coal-black curls as on he rode,
As he rode down to Camelot.
From the bank and from the river 105
He flash'd into the crystal mirror,
'Tirra lirra,' by the river
Sang Sir Lancelot.

She left the web, she left the loom,
She made three paces thro' the room, 110
She saw the water-lily bloom,
She saw the helmet and the plume,
She look'd down to Camelot.
Out flew the web and floated wide ;
The mirror crack'd from side to side ; 115
'The curse is come upon me,' cried
The Lady of Shalott.

IV

IN the stormy east-wind straining,
The pale yellow woods were waning,
The broad stream in his banks complaining, 120
Heavily the low sky raining

Over tower'd Camelot ;
Down she came and found a boat
Beneath a willow left afloat,
And round about the prow she wrote 125
The Lady of Shalott.

And down the river's dim expanse
Like some bold seër in a trance,
Seeing all his own mischance—
With a glassy countenance 130

Did she look to Camelot.
And at the closing of the day
She loosed the chain, and down she lay ;
The broad stream bore her far away,
The Lady of Shalott. 135

Lying, robed in snowy white
That loosely flew to left and right—
The leaves upon her falling light—
Thro' the noises of the night
She floated down to Camelot : 140

And as the boat-head wound along
The willowy hills and fields among,
They heard her singing her last song,
The Lady of Shalott.

Heard a carol, mournful, holy, 145
Chanted loudly, chanted lowly,
Till her blood was frozen slowly,
And her eyes were darken'd wholly,
Turn'd to tower'd Camelot.

For ere she reach'd upon the tide 150
The first house by the water-side,
Singing in her song she died,
The Lady of Shalott.

Under tower and balcony,
By garden-wall and gallery, 155
A gleaming shape she floated by,
Dead-pale between the houses high,
Silent into Camelot.

Out upon the wharfs they came,
Knight and burgher, lord and dame, 160
And round the prow they read her name,
The Lady of Shalott.

Who is this? and what is here?
And in the lighted palace near
Died the sound of royal cheer ; 165
And they cross'd themselves for fear,
All the knights at Camelot :
But Lancelot mused a little space ;
He said, ' She has a lovely face ;
God in his mercy lend her grace, 170
The Lady of Shalott.'

THE CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE

I

HALF a league, half a league,
Half a league onward,
All in the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred.
' Forward, the Light Brigade ! 5
Charge for the guns ! ' he said :
Into the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred.

II

'Forward, the Light Brigade !'
Was there a man dismay'd? 10
Not tho' the soldier knew
Some one had blunder'd :
Their's not to make reply,
Their's not to reason why,
Their's but to do and die : 15
Into the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred.

III

Cannon to right of them,
Cannon to left of them,
Cannon in front of them 20
Volley'd and thunder'd ;
Storm'd at with shot and shell,
Boldly they rode and well,
Into the jaws of Death,
Into the mouth of Hell 25
Rode the six hundred.

IV

Flash'd all their sabres bare,
Flash'd as they turn'd in air
Sabring the gunners there,
Charging an army, while 30
All the world wonder'd :
Plunged in the battery-smoke
Right thro' the line they broke ;
Cossack and Russian
Reel'd from the sabre-stroke 35
Shatter'd and sunder'd.
Then they rode back, but not
Not the six hundred.

V

Cannon to right of them,
Cannon to left of them,	40
Cannon behind them
Volley'd and thunder'd ;
Storm'd at with shot and shell,
While horse and hero fell,
They that had fought so well	45
Came thro' the jaws of Death,
Back from the mouth of Hell,
All that was left of them,
Left of six hundred.

VI

When can their glory fade ?	50
O the wild charge they made !
All the world wonder'd.
Honour the charge they made !
Honour the Light Brigade,
Noble six hundred !	55

Lord Tennyson

End of First Part

NOTES:

MAINLY HISTORICAL AND CRITICAL

6	4	Most copies of Cowper's poems contain an account of these hares, written in the exquisite prose of which he was master.
13	9	The poetry which Blake, an artist of very high and rare powers, wrote during his youth, shows the same qualities as his art: simple yet often majestic imagination, spiritual insight, profound feeling for grace and colour. Like his art also, his verse is narrow in its range, and at times eccentric to the neighbourhood of madness. But, whatever he writes, his eye is always straight upon his subject.
26	12	So many beautiful pieces in prose and verse have been written in the Scots or North Country language that a great source of pleasure is lost by readers who will not take the small pains required to master the peculiarities of spelling and vocabulary: it is hoped that the very numerous notes added here will tempt children to give themselves this pleasure. The original ballads by unknown poets appear generally to have taken their present form within the two hundred years before 1700.
33	16	Casabianca was son to a French Admiral commanding the flag-ship L'Orient at the battle of the Nile, 1798.
34	17	The Birkenhead , steam troop-ship, struck near Simon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, 25th of February, 1852. Four hundred and thirty-eight officers, soldiers, and seamen, were lost: including the military commander, Colonel Seton of the 74th. For some alterations which make this fine poem more intelligible to children, readers are indebted to the author's kindness.
37	19	These gallant lines are almost worthy of Campbell.
33	20	The Royal George , of 108 guns, commanded by Admiral Kempenfelt, whilst undergoing a partial careening in Portsmouth Harbour, was overset about 10 A.M. Aug. 29 1782. The total loss was believed to be near 1,000 souls. These lines were written (Sept. 1782) to the music of the March in Handel's Scipio . For tenderness and grandeur under the form of severe simplicity they have few rivals. They are Greek after the manner in which a modern English poet should be Greek:—Readers who admire them are on the right way to high and lasting pleasure.
39	21	Burns justly named this 'one of the most beautiful songs in the Scots or any other language.'
41	23	'I never saw anything like this funeral dirge,' says Charles Lamb, 'except the ditty which reminds Ferdinand of his drowned father in the Tempest . As that is of the water, watery; so this is of the earth, earthy. Both have that intenseness of feeling, which seems to resolve itself into the element which it contemplates.'
42	24	Alexander Selkirk's life of four years in the desolate

- island, Juan Fernandez, may have been in De Foe's mind when he wrote 'Robinson Crusoe.'
- 48 28 Line 66, Cockrood, unexplained, so far as the Editor can learn. It would seem to mean either a road or run, as we say, for woodcocks; or a wooden stage for them, by a vague use of road.
- 49 29 A justly famous specimen of the allegorical style prevalent in Elizabeth's time: the Shepherd's life being poetically glorified and described as a type of life in general. This piece should be compared with the charming truthfulness of Herrick's country scenes in the preceding piece, or Wordsworth's following:—Marlowe's has much beauty: but how much more beautiful is Truth, in the hands of a genuine poet!
- 68 41 The tale of Lord Leicester's private marriage with Amy Robsart, her imprisonment and fearful death at Cumnor Hall, near Oxford, partially confirmed by history, has been made more real to us than most historical realities by Sir Walter Scott's Kenilworth: the most splendid of the three tragic romances left by that great writer.
- 78 47 This spirited poem, which blazes throughout with the highhearted patriotism of its distinguished author, should be read accompanied by some history of the period, and the map of England.
- Line 10, Pinta; the Editor can find no Spanish vessel recorded under this name; nor does the word, in Spanish, bear any sense applicable to a ship. Medina Sidonia, who commanded the Armada, sailed in the Saint Martin.
- Line 23, At Cressy, in Picardy, the king of Bohemia, and a body of Genoese soldiers, fought in the army of Philip. Cæsar's eagle shield appears to be an allusion to some German troops who also served. The eagle is the ancient bearing of the empire.
- Line 42, Mines of lead and zinc exist in the Mendip Hills.
- Line 43, Longleat, Cranbourne; houses in Wilts and Dorset belonging to Lords Bath and Salisbury.
- Line 71, Belvoir, house of the Duke of Rutland near Grantham.
- Line 73, Gaunt's embattled pile, Lancaster Castle, built by John of Gaunt about 1363.
- 82 48 This battle was fought December 2, 1800, between the Austrians under Archduke John and the French under Moreau, in a forest near Munich. Hohen Linden means High Limetrees.
- 86 51 Belisarius, a Thracian peasant, became general of the Roman Empire under Justinian. He fought against the Vandals, Moors, Goths, Bulgarians, and other enemies; but was finally dismissed ungratefully by the Emperor, and died A.D. 565.
- The writer of this rough, but truly noble and original poem, died soon after 1800. The version here given (from Plumtre's 'Songs,' 1806) differs from that published by Collins in his very rare little book, 'Scripscrapologia,' 1804.
- 80 53 Lines 22, 24, These places are in the S.W. promontory of

- Donegal, Ireland. Slieveleague is a mountain ; Columbk-kill a glen between Slieveleague and the Rosses islands.
- 96 56 The poet professed that these fine, wildly musical lines came to him in his sleep, and that all he did on waking was to write them down. Coleridge, in his magic world, is the most imaginative and romantic of all our poets, Shakespeare (always exceptional) excepted. Seeing how little he wrote in this class, we must regret that he did not dream oftener.
- 100 59 In this one poem the Editor has ventured to make some changes, in order to simplify the language, which (in the original) does not appear to him to do full justice to the admirable simplicity and pathos of the picture presented.
- 102 60 During the last three centuries, the poetry written in the North Country or Scots form of English has been so much more important than that written in other forms, as to obscure the peculiar merits which each of them possesses. But the series of poems from which this piece and the next are taken proves the pathos and picturesqueness which the Dorset dialect has when handled by a gifted countryman.
- 105 62 The death of a young man wandering on Helvellyn in the Lake country, in 1805, supplied Scott with his subject. In this poem the thoughts are much simpler than the language: a rare fault with Scott, or, indeed, with any really great poet.
- 112 70 An admirable specimen of the Allegorical style which, under the first two Stuart kings, took the place of the pastoral Elizabethan allegory represented by No. 29. Few poets, in C. Lamb's language, are more 'matterful' than Herbert, or express their thoughts with fewer words, introduced only for ornament or metre's sake.
- 118 72 Remarkable for its close and scientific enumeration of natural phenomena.
- 119 73 An extract from the long poem said to have been written by poor Smart when confined as a madman. It is full of glorious wildness and intense imagination. Many of its strange phrases (as line 10 here) might probably be traced to, if not explained by, the writings of the 'mystical' theologians.
- 120 74 It is remarkable how much Addison here anticipates the exquisite suavity and elegance of Cowper's style in similar pieces.
- 121 75 Wordsworth has left no more consummate specimen of the singular art by which he presents us with a thought which strikes the mind as, at once, perfectly original, and yet, perfectly familiar. The Cuckoo (No. 78), on the other hand, paints a fervour of imaginative delight which would be felt only by a highly poetical nature.
- 128 81 Arethusa, with the two poems which follow it, will probably be found difficult at first reading, and may give older children a glimpse into that world of poetry in general to which this book is meant as an introduction.

Shelley has here put into verse, so brilliant that we easily forgive its occasional commonplace and carelessness of phrase, a Greek mythical legend.

Divine Alpheus, who by secret sluice
Stole under seas to meet his Arethuse,

the ancient central province of Southern Greece, is feigned to pursue the stream Arethusa; they pass through a rent in Mount Erymanthus, cross under the sea to Sicily (opposite to the coast of Greece), and now form one stream in the harbour of Syracuse (Ortygia). Acrocerania, a mountain tract in Northern Greece, must have been named by Shelley inadvertently, or on account of the resonance of the name. This poem is a fine example of Shelley's singular power in personification: he paints the rivers as vividly as if they had been real human creatures.

- 131 82 L'Allégre and Il Penseroso. It is a striking proof of Milton's astonishing power, that these, the earliest pure descriptive lyrics in our language, should still remain the best in a style which so many great poets have since attempted. The bright and the thoughtful aspects of nature are their subjects; but each is preceded by a mythological introduction in a mixed Classical and Italian manner. The meaning of the first is that gaiety is the child of nature and of spring; of the second, that pensiveness is the daughter of solitude and wisdom.

- 132 — Line 36, Milton calls Liberty a mountain-nymph in allusion to ancient Greece, Switzerland, and other similar countries in which national freedom has been defended by the hardy inhabitants. Wordsworth has a fine sonnet on this subject.

- 135 — Line 132, The sock was the low shoe worn by actors in the ancient comedies; the buskin (line 102 of the Penseroso, No. 83) the high shoe worn in tragedies, to give the figure a more commanding air.

Line 133, Fancy: probably used for what we speak of as Imagination. Milton is here alluding to Shakespeare through the mouth of the 'Cheerful Man;' he hence refers to Shakespeare's lighter qualities.

Line 145, Orpheus in Greek story was a divine musician who redeemed his wife Eurydice from death (Pluto) by song; but lost her when on the boundary line of life by turning back to look on her before she had passed it. See also Penseroso, No. 83, line 105.

- 137 83 Line 46, Spare Fast: Milton elsewhere has expressed his belief that the mind is made clear and fit for high and divine thoughts by fasting.

- 138 — Line 87, The Great Bear, in English latitudes being always above the horizon, is here used for Night.

Line 98, Sceptred pall: Ancient tragedies turned generally on the fortunes of heroic persons, kings, and gods; hence the actors appeared robed and with sceptres. Thebes, &c. are names referring to the great Athenian tragedies.

- 139 — Line 110, Cambuscan, &c., these names occur in Chaucer's unfinished 'Squire's Tale.'

Line 116, Great bards; referring to such poets as the Italian Ariosto and Tasso, and to our own Spenser.

- 142 85 This lovely song is taken from the Idyll Sea Dreams.
— 86 Founded on the ancient tale that the Swan sang only once, but sang then with magical beauty, to celebrate its own death.

- 144 87 An old legend, mentioned by Shakespeare in Romeo and Juliet, Act II, Scene i.

PAGE	NO.
145	88	Sarah Higgins, a Shropshire lass, was the village maiden here described. She married the Earl of Exeter, owner of Burleigh House near Stamford, a magnificent building of Queen Elizabeth's time, and died in 1797. The Lady Sophia Cecil, third of the fair children (L. 87) was grandmother to the present (third) Duke of Wellington.
148	89	Founded upon an Italian version of the Arthurian romance, which Tennyson has again rendered, under a very different form, in his Idyll Lancelot and Elaine . Line 5, Camelot , King Arthur's legendary capital.
153	90	This famous Charge occurred during the battle of Balaclava in the Russian war, 25 October, 1854. The Charge lasted twenty-five minutes, and left more than two-thirds of our soldiers slain or wounded.
